New York, Nov. 1. (UP).—A full gale whooped in from the North Atlantic Ocean, today, hammered Long Island shores, swept 20 flimsy seaside bungalows into Jamaica Bay, toppled or unroofed 60 more and roared west to play among the Manhattan skyscrapers at 95 miles an hour.

Blaze New York, which lifts an eyebrow at mid-western tornadoes, sampled the seaside equivalent this afternoon, and didn't care for the sample.

A deluge of rain came with the ocean blasts, blotting out the skyscraper peaks whose summits were lost in the whipping racing clouds. Wind gusts thundered and roared about these peaks. The upper floors vibrated slightly, a quite safe and normal procedure—in the uproar of the elements.

On the drenched street levels literally thousands of umbrellas were mushroomed inside out, littering the gutters from which street cleaners swept them whole-sale.

Trees were uprooted, small boats and yachts were torn from moorings, the docks were wrecked, the excursion boat "Statue of Liberty" was driven ashore on Bedloe's Island, crowned by the copper-green statue.

The storm held up Governor Roosevelt's campaign party two hours in Massachusetts; toppled a 75-foot factory chimney in Philadelphia, and unroofed a chicken house at Valley Stream, L. I., leaving 60 chickens dead.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 1. (UP).—Small boats huddled in harbors to-night as a heavy storm, already with the intensity of a fresh gale, approached the Oregon and Washington coast.

A 58-mile an hour gale was blowing at North Head. The barometer was falling rapidly at Coos Bay, North Head and Tatoosh Island, while storm warnings were posted from California to Cape Flattery.

Paris, Nov. 1. (UP).—North-westerly gales continued to lash the French coast today. The storm was so severe that boardwalks at Deauville and Trouville were smashed by the waves.

MAN ARRESTED

Maury Hughes, about 30, was arrested and placed in the city jail last night charged with the theft of an automobile belonging to T. P. Hopkins, of Houston, reported stolen there several days ago. He was arrested by Patrolmen F. F. Pinson, and Deputy Sheriff Ellis Johnson, as he entered the city, coming from Longview.

Gregg County officers said he was wanted for questioning there on another charge.

Politics is getting more mixed up every day. Monday night a negro editor spoke over the radio from Houston advocating the election of Roosevelt and Ferguson. COUNTY ASKS
STATE TO TAKE
HIGHWAY DEBTTexas Would Assume $766,
437.50 of Indebtedness
Incurred Here

Under provisions of the recently enacted highway bond assumption bill, Harrison County asked the state Tuesday to assume $766,437.50 of its outstanding bonded indebtedness, incurred through construction of roads now designated as state highways.

The amount, County Judge B. R. Lindsay said, will leave the total indebtedness at $380,562.50, out of a $1,147,000 figure remaining unpaid from a bond issue of $1,750,000, voted in 1919.

The total cost of construction for the state roads was placed at $1,169,368.46.

After two months searching through records, Judge Lindsay and W. J. Warren, county engineer, completed work Tuesday on supplementary records and information on what the county should submit for reimbursement, and forwarded the proofs to Austin.

The amount submitted represents money expended in actual construction and engineering costs.

It is for the bonds issued for construction on Highway 8, from Marshall to Marion and Panola counties; Highway 15, from the Gregg county line to the Louisiana state line; Highway 43 to Panola county; and Highway 155 to the Upshur county line.

Of the amount, $64,058.58 was expended on the Highway 8 project to Panola county; $61,248.38 on Highway 8 to Marion county; $804,447.10 on Highway 15, from the Gregg county line to the Louisiana line; $28,752.70 on Highway 43; and $210,858.73 on Highway 155, from here to the Upshur county line.

The figures, Judge Lindsay said, did not include any expense for purchasing right of way.

Of the outstanding indebtedness before the state assumption was voted, Judge Lindsay said $201,000 of the bonds were scheduled to mature in 1934, and the remainder, $946,000 all being matured serially.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 1. (UP).—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt returned to the executive mansion late tonight after a four-day campaign swing that took him into every one of the New England states. Roosevelt set out from Boston today for his farm home at Hyde Park, but revised his plans while at New Canaan, Conn.

Enroute to Hyde Park, N. Y., with Gov. Roosevelt, Nov. 1. (UP).—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt swung into the home stretch of his drive to capture New England tonight, heading across Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut in a drenching rain-storm.

Despite the storm which turned some streets of Worcester, Mass., into pools of water, thousands of enthusiastic persons turned out to hail the Democratic presidential nominee as "our next President."

The Governor told a cheering throng of enthusiastic Democrats at Providence that "I am confident that Rhode Island will be found in my column in November."

Three speeches, instead of two in New York in the closing days of the week were on his program, it was learned. Thursday night he is to address the progressive Republican League. Friday night he will speak in the Brooklyn Academy of Music, and Saturday night in Madison Square Garden.

En Route with Gov. Roosevelt in New England, Nov. 1. (UP).—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt today turned to southern New England in his campaign to capture the Northeast, and advanced upon Rhode Island and Connecticut after a major address in Boston in which he accused the Hoover administration of waging a campaign of "cheats and intimidation."

The Democratic presidential nominee planned to visit a number of cities, including Providence, (Continued on Page Eight)

FEDERAL FUNDS

CITY OF SLUMS

Washington, Nov. 1. (UP).—The federal government today lent money to help clear a city of slums.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation advanced $3,957,000 to the Hillside Housing Corporation of New York to build model apartments for 1,581 families in the Bronx.

The loan is the first of three expected to be made to rid the East Side of its slum area—the largest in the United States and which for generations has ranked as a sociological problem.

LABOR LEADER
URGES DEFEAT OF INCUMBENT

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 1. (UP).—A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, urged organized labor in a speech here tonight to defeat President Hoover's re-election.

He charged that only one important law was secured by organized labor during the President's administration "and the President is entitled to no credit for the enactment of that law." Whitney referred to the "anti-yellow dog" and anti-labor injunction bill which Senator George W. Norris said here recently was enacted "despite President Hoover's opposition."

NIMRODS RETURN TO LAKES TODAY FOR VENGEANCE ON DUCKS WHICH
FAILED TO SHOW UP FOR OPENER

Nimrods who hied forth to Cad Lake for the opening of the duck season yesterday at noon returned home last night with sad tales to tell.

The lake was there, the decoys quacked, the weather was alrish, but alas there were few ducks. After resting on their "arms" all day Monday, Monday night, and early Tuesday, eager hunters, ready for the heavy barrage, set out for blinds just before noon to be ready for the opening blast.

Decoys, live and wooden, were set out, guides and helpers schooled away, and quiet reigned. All was ready for the first flight to approach.

Washington, Nov. 1. (UP).—An examiner of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was enroute to Reno, Nev., by airplane tonight to investigate the financial condition of state banks.

Washington, Nov. 1. (UP).—Governor Fred Balzar of Nevada, who talks and thinks in the terms of the last frontier, fought today to insure the financial salvation of his state by a Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan.

Balzar asked President Hoover to help obtain a $2,000,000 loan. The President assured him he would try to help.

Reno, Nev., Nov. 1. (UP).—The roulette balls clicked merrily round and round, and the dice rattled as sharply as ever in Reno tonight.

Nevadans, deep-tanned sons of a state with a gambling tradition, had already recovered from the shock of learning this morning that 19 of the state's 26 banks had closed their doors for two weeks under a "financial holiday" proclaimed by Lieutenant-Governor Morley Griswold.

At least $17,000,000 was locked up in 12 of the 19 closed institutions.

About $100,000 in silver dollars was on the gaming tables and in the vaults of the gambling houses. The dollars are used as poker chips and elsewhere. There was no estimate of the amount of paper money the gamblers had. Huge sums are carried in order to pay any phenomenal winnings that may occur.

HOOVER PLANS
FIFTH JAUNT
OF CAMPAIGNLast Trip May End at Home
Of President in CaliforniaEIGHT STOPS ARRANGED
FOR BRIEF ADDRESSESFour Years Ago Yesterday
Hoover Was on Eve
Of Triumph

Washington, Nov. 1. (UP).—President Hoover planned his fifth campaign swing into the Midwest today, a trip that will take him into Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Minnesota.

This campaign venture, which may end at the President's Palo Alto, Calif., home, will see major addresses Friday at Springfield, Ill., the shrine of Abraham Lincoln, St. Louis and either St. Paul or Minneapolis, Minn., on Saturday. Mr. Hoover first planned to speak at Minneapolis but, according to Walter Newton, his secretary, the facilities there appeared unavailable and the address probably would be made in St. Paul.

Eight other stops in Indiana, Illinois and Missouri have been arranged thus far for brief platform addresses. These, according to announcement today, will be at Gary, Ind., Joliet, LaSalle, Ottawa, Pekin and Peoria, Ill., and Collinsville and East St. Louis, Ill.

No address has been scheduled for Chicago, though the presidential train will be switched there. The President is inclined to omit an address at Chicago, because of local conditions despite pleas of Republican leaders.

Friends of Mr. Hoover still believe he may decline after his Minneapolis speech to make a dash for California. If he goes, he will arrive there either late Monday night or on election day, thus avoiding state factional controversies.

It was just four years ago today that President Hoover left here on a cross country journey which landed him at his home on election eve, with stops at Louisville, Ky., St. Louis, and Pueblo, Colo., for speeches. The trip from St. Louis to Palo Alto was a record run over that route.

HUGHES CLAIMS
ALL EAST TEXAS
FOR FERGUSONS

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 1. (UP).—Maury Hughes, state Democratic executive committee chairman, predicted today that Orville Bullington, Republican candidate for governor, will carry less than 15 counties over Mrs. Miriam A. (Ma) Ferguson, Democratic, in next Tuesday's election.

Basing his statements on analysis of reports from party leaders all over the state, Hughes said prospects are good for a million-vote election and a 300,000 majority for Mrs. Ferguson. He could see only a few weak spots for her, with Dallas County the least hopeful.

"Mrs. Ferguson will win by a majority of 250,000 to 300,000, according to the vote cast," Hughes said. "Bullington is practically unknown in half the counties where he has no organization and no concerted support."

"In East Texas, Mrs. Ferguson will carry every county from Red River to the Gulf, including Smith, and Tyler, its county seat which is the only place in the section where there is any organization behind Bullington."

Longview, Tex., Nov. 1. (UP).—After it had blazed and run wild for 14 hours, the Shell Petroleum Company well No. 8 on the C. C. Landers farm, seven miles north of Gladewater, was extinguished late today.

Shell Company employees using 500 gallons of Foamite snuffed out the flames, which had leaped into the air since the blast occurred shortly after 2 a. m.

Meanwhile Texas rangers, suspecting the conflagration was of incendiary origin, were conducting an investigation here tonight.

"PRETTY BOY"
COMES HOME TO ROB BANK

Sallisaw, Okla., Nov. 1. (UP).—Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, notorious bandit and killer, today picked his home town for resumption of his outlaw career.

Floyd, idle since June, robbed the State Bank here of between $4,000 and $7,000, and escaped with two companions, with Assistant Cashier R. A. Riggs as a hostage.

"There's no doubt about it," said Riggs after being released unharmed near town, "Charley Floyd is out robbing banks again. He grew up near here and six different persons recognized him."

One of Floyd's companions was identified as George Birdwell, the outlaw's lieutenant.

Birdwell and Floyd entered the bank together. Birdwell was carrying a sub-machine gun, his favorite weapon.

"Now nobody's going to get hurt if you'll stand aside and not make any disturbance," Floyd said.

While Birdwell held his gun, menacing officials and customers in the bank, Floyd looted the cash tills of all available currency.

They walked through the bank's door with Riggs between them. They entered a parked car, driven by a third bandit, and escaped. Riggs was released not far from the town.

Flames swept the derrick after a crown block had crashed. Cowart's helpers escaped by sliding across the river on a guy wire leading from the derrick.

London, Nov. 1. (UP).—Hundreds of unemployed men and roving bands of street ruffians fought police all over London tonight after they had been driven away from Parliament Square.

There were outbreaks in South London, Westminster, along the Strand and in Cockspur Street, but the principal fight was at Trafalgar Square. Platoons of mounted police used their truncheons, driving demonstrators before them.

The Parliament Square affair was comparatively peaceful. The unemployed groups and the Holigan bands popped up later in scattered sections, smashing store windows, overturning automobiles, and hurling stones at police.

The admiralty arch gates were closed to prevent demonstrators from entering the Mall which leads to Buckingham Palace. Parliament Square was kept clear.

Emergency police squads went into South London when the jobless groups began breaking shop windows. They prevented extensive looting.

AUTO STOLEN
IN CALIFORNIA
IS FOUND HERE

The "Arm of the law" stretched from California to Marshall last night and took in George L. Harmon, 23, of Oakland, wanted for the theft of an automobile.

The youth is alleged to have stolen a 1929 model Ford sedan, owned by K. E. Thomas, of Hayward, Calif., who reported the machine missing August 30.

It was not until the week of the Central East Texas Fair, October 3-8, however, that local officers entered the case. At this time a man entered a local garage and asked for minor repairs on his car. He left the auto, and failed to return.

Several weeks later, owners of the garage, believing the car had been stolen, informed local authorities. In turn they communicated with California police and auto theft bureaus, who traced it to Thomas.

Meanwhile, the machine remained at the garage as local officers took steps for its disposition. Yesterday a man entered the shop, called for the car and explained he "was a friend of the man who brought it there."

Garagemen called officers and Harmon's arrest followed. He admitted his identity.

Cross-Blending

WHAT IS IT..and how does it improve cigarette taste?

YOU'VE heard how fruit of one variety has been crossed with fruit of another to produce a new and more pleasing flavor. The loganberry, for example, is a cross between the raspberry and the blackberry.

Chesterfield's Cross-Blend gets the same result—better taste—by a different method.

It welds together the different kinds of several varieties of tobacco. Many types of Bright tobacco, a great many types of Burley tobacco, and numerous grades of Turkish tobacco are all merged into one—Chesterfield tobacco.

This welding or Cross-Blending goes beyond ordinary blending or mixing tobaccos together. It actually makes every kind of tobacco in Chesterfield partake of the qualities of every other type.

It's the Cross-Blending of fine Turkish and Domestic tobaccos that gives Chesterfields a distinctive, better taste.

They are milder. They have a flavor and aroma which, we believe, you will like.

MAJOR PARTIES FINDING GOING RATHER LEAN

Washington, Nov. 1. (UP).—Both major parties are finding the going lean during the 1932 campaign as compared with the more prosperous times of 1928, according to reports just filed with South Trimble, clerk of the House of Representatives. They show the Republican party is trying to wrest victory at the polls on receipts to date of $1,478,791. In 1928 it had $4,911,744 to do the work.

An even greater falling off is being experienced by the Democratic party which has received but $1,085,654. In 1928 it had a "bankroll" of $4,088,988.

The reports are for slightly varying periods. The Republican national committee in both years reported for the period from Sept. 1 to Oct. 26. The Democratic national committee's report covered the period from Sept. 1 to Oct. 22. But in both instances they cover the bulk of the fund-raising and spending period.

In 1928, the Republican contributions totaled $770,465 in the few days between its pre-election report and election day. The Democratic party received $1,923,894 just before election. Neither national committee of course expected to receive anything like this amount in 1932.

The entire cost of the national committee campaigns four years ago combined to make a total of more than $8,800,000. The combined receipts of the two parties were more than $9,000,000.

A comparison of expenditures naturally reflects the smaller contributions received. The Republicans, though, appear to have kept their budget—more successfully than the Democrats.

To elect Mr. Hoover in 1928, his party spent $4,744,361, while to date it has spent only $1,454,179 to obtain his re-election. Alfred E. Smith's campaign for the corresponding period in 1928 cost $4,008,023 while his successor as the party standard bearer, Franklin D. Roosevelt, has had but $926,208 expended in his behalf.

NORMA

One of the most poignant triangle dramas ever recounted outside the pages of fiction came to a tragic conclusion at Woodmere, L. I., when the bodies of Mrs. Jean Phillips and her two children, Norma and Christopher, were found gassed to death in their home. The triple tragedy was the climax of a domestic tangle that had been going on for months. Guy Phillips, actor and dramatic coach, had turned from his wife and given his affection to Mrs. Theresa Seltzer, wife of a wealthy linen importer. At first Phillips carried on the affair clandestinely, but later had openly shown his devotion to the "other woman." The last act of the drama began when Mrs. Phillips proposed a conference between all parties concerned—herself, her husband, Mrs. and Mr. Seltzer, who, incidentally had filed suit charging Phillips with alienation of affections. Seltzer declined the invitation, but the other three discussed their problem and decided that divorce was the only way out. Mrs. Seltzer and Phillips were to divorce their respective mates and get married. But Mrs. Phillips apparently wanted to make sure that her husband got the freedom he desired. And when the conference had concluded and the family had retired for the night, she turned on the gas jets, killing herself and her two children.

GRAND JURY MAY CUT EXPENSES

Economy measures employed by the county to reduce operating expenses Tuesday swung in the direction of door and riding bailiffs used by the grand jury in its sessions. County Attorney Benjamin Woodall announced that when the inquisitorial body convenes next week he will recommend employment of only one door bailiff and one riding bailiff. Two bailiffs will be used to subpoena witnesses. The bailiffs receive $4.00 a day for their work. Woodall stated that in the past as many as eight men have been used. He said the recommendation is being asked to "exercise the strictest economy."

OFFICER SHOT FROM AMBUSH

M. D. Phillips, city marshal of Mooringsport, La., and a member of the Marshall police department between 15 and 20 years ago, was in a Shreveport, La., hospital, Tuesday in a critical condition from gunshot wounds in the left side, received Monday night when fired upon by an unknown assailant.

Larry and Clifford Phillips, who are brothers of the wounded officer, went to Shreveport Monday night when informed of the shooting.

Phillips, 59, was shot about two blocks from his home in front of the Mooringsport Baptist church. Attending physicians said unless complications develop he has an even chance to live although 40 shots perforated his entire left side from ankle to temple.

Phillips could assign no reason for the shooting, according to word received here, and said he had no known enemies.

Investigating officers said his assailant fired from a distance of about 25 feet, and apparently was hidden under the church.

Phillips has been city marshal, and a deputy sheriff of Caddo Parish for about three years.

HEARD ON THE STREET-CORNERS

the Republican ticket all his life he has at last seen the light and will vote the straight Democratic ticket this year.

On the other hand I listened over the radio the other night to General M. M. Crane making a speech for the Republican candidate for Governor, and read that when this same Republican candidate spoke at the state capital that he was introduced by a son of Gov. James S. Hogg and that Governor Sterling and Secretary of State, Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, sat upon the platform.

I heard a new idea yesterday as to why the negro is taking an active part in politics this year. It was advanced that the reason was because Texas voted for Hoover four years ago. Just how that can be figured out I can't understand.

If the negroes were now advocating Hoover, or he had appointed members of that race to office, I could see some logic in the argument. There is only one negro postmaster in Texas and he lives in a neighborhood down on the Brazos river in which no white person lives. As a matter of fact anybody who has sense enough to come in out of the rain knows that Jim Ferguson in his desperation has called on the colored brother to save him from sinking. What Jim has promised them for this support is the milk in the cocoanut. No one believes that the national Democratic ticket needs or has asked for negro support in Texas.

I have received a letter from far-off Barnesville, Pa., asking me some question. It's writer says she (I think it's a lady's writing) has voted the Democratic ticket through life and as she lives in Pennsylvania she must have been quite homesick at times, but this of course is to her credit. But she says she wouldn't vote for Ma if she lived in Texas. She asks some questions and desires an answer in this column. Question 1: "Is not James E. Ferguson the same man that organized the American party in 1920?" Answer: Yes, and he also organized the American Road Company. Question 2: "Did he not bolt the Democratic party in 1924?" Answer: Yes. Question 3: "Did he not rejoice in 1920 over the defeat of the Democratic party and did he not express his pleasure at the defeat in his paper?" Answer: Yes. Question 4: "Can you tell me how any true Democrat can conscientiously vote for him after he said that the Democrats didn't have the intelligence of a jackass or the decency of a skunk?" Answer: I cannot. Question 5: "Do you honestly believe if Ma is elected that Pa will be the proxy Governor?" Answer: I steadfastly so believe, as we Methodists say when we join the church. Question 6: "Are you proud of the fact that you supported her in her first campaign?" Answer: I did not support her in her first primary but did in the second or runoff primary when it was either a Ku Klux or Jim Ferguson. I confess I have no pride in my course.

And the letter closes thus: "Perhaps you will wonder why I am interested in the race. It is because I hate to see the good people of Texas elect Ma for Governor that great state on the same ticket that that great Democratic leader, Franklin D. Roosevelt, is running for the Presidency of the United States." And I would say, my dear lady, there are just lots of good folks who feel like you do.

Two straw votes have been taken in the Governor's race, one in Houston, the other in Fort Worth. In Houston 2650 votes had been cast up to last Thursday with this result: Bullington 1,535, Ferguson 1,115. In Fort Worth only 582 votes had been counted, giving Bullington 372, Ferguson 210. polls of chance groups in various parts of the state show like results."

I heard two things yesterday that were rather out of the ordinary. A little girl of 12 on her way to school was asked who was Governor, said she wasn't certain but thought it was Miss Margie Neal, and I was called over the phone and asked if Postmaster Wilson was for Hoover.

ROOSEVELT'S ELECTION IS URGED BY HEAD OF ADVERTISING ASS'N.

Houston, Tex., Nov. 1. (UP).—Election of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt to the presidency was advocated here today by Edgar Kobac, New York, president of the Advertising Federation of America.

"Roosevelt's election," said Mr. Kobac in an interview, "might result in some American industrial leaders going to work and doing some of the things they should have done two years ago."

"The thing that gets my nanny is that a portion of our business executives, regardless of their politics, say that things are going to hell if their man is not elected."

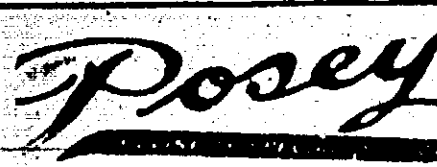

"Most of those men are using the election as an excuse for their own lack of ability to rebuild their own businesses."

"If Roosevelt is elected, some of these fellows now hollering 'we'll have to close up shop unless our candidate is elected' will be so scared they will wake up, go to work and do some of the things they should have done two years ago."

Kobac also is executive vice president of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Company.

TEXAS STARTS MOVING ANNUAL TURKEY CROP TO EASTERN MARKETS

Fort Worth, Texas, Nov. 1. (UP).—Feathers will fly in poultry marketing centers of Texas soon as 10,000 persons prepared the first of 1,000 carloads of picked turkeys for Thanksgiving Day dinner tables—from Maine to Washington.

The Thanksgiving season shipment will bring approximately $8,000,000 to Texas growers, according to pre-season estimates. Prices will not be known until the market opens about Nov. 8. A 15 per cent increase has been predicted in the crop, which may react adversely on the market.

The 20-pound roasted-brown bird that was the crowning glory of the Thanksgiving Day dinner table a decade ago will be scarce this year.

The average American household will buy a lighter bird. Whether the depression or the decrease in size of the average family is to blame, E. N. Holmgren, Texas A. & M. College poultry husbandman, is not certain.

THE POPEY'S ANSWER

In Flanders field we poppies grow
 That all the passing world may know
 We herald peace, surcease of pain.
 For those who fought
 Now live again.

Not in cold stone or mortal arts,
 But in the depths of loving hearts,
 We bloom afresh above our dead.
 Our blossoms deck our heroes' bed
 In Flanders fields.

JIM'S VISION LIMITED

Jim Ferguson is always true to Fergusonism. In his advocacy of the national Democratic ticket he overlooks all the admirable qualities of Governor Roosevelt, his fitness for the Presidency, his stainless character, his ability and integrity, and appeals to Texans to vote for the Governor for this reason:

"Roosevelt," Jim solemnly declares, "is a great party man, and is strong for party regularity, and if any bolters came along and asked for an appointment, Roosevelt would say, 'Get thee behind me Satan' and throw them out."

Then Jim dangled what he said was 25,000 federal offices in Texas would go to the faithful. That there are less than 400 offices in Texas that are appointed by the President makes no difference to Jim. He wants all the civil service jobs put on the pie counter—postoffice clerks, city and rural carriers, janitors, scrub women, doctors and nurses in veteran hospitals, and after he has garnered together every federal office in Texas there would be fewer than one-half of the number who Jim says can get a swig at the government teat if they will only vote the straight ticket including Ma.

Of course we all know that Governor Roosevelt is pleading in every speech for the voters to break party shackles and put the weal of the country above party fealty. And if the people of Texas follow Roosevelt's advice Jim Ferguson will fade beyond the purple rim.

THE SOCIALIST VOTE

Both political parties are worried over the vote that Norman Thomas, the Socialist candidate for the presidency, is likely to receive. The Literary Digest poll shows him receiving a surprisingly large vote. Shrewd political prognosticators predict he will get no less than 2,000,000 votes. As he will receive the most of his votes in doubtful states like New York, New Jersey and Ohio, makes it especially interesting. Thomas has made a national campaign and his speeches do not sound as dangerous as we might expect. In fact he says that Roosevelt and Hoover in their speeches have gone much further towards socialism than he has in their promises to use governmental functions in the settlement of our present depression.

The Princetonian, the students' paper of the Princeton University, has taken a poll of the students attending the universities of the entire country, and if that poll can be taken as an indication of the trend towards socialism, we are much nearer that dreadful goal than most us have imagined. Over 25,000 students voted and the result is startling. The vote for Roosevelt and Thomas is practically the same. However, it shows Hoover far in advance of both of them, but our object in printing the result is to show the large Thomas vote. For example, Columbia, one of the greatest universities in the world, shows Thomas leading both of the other candidates. But here is a partial poll and you can ponder on it to suit yourself:

COTTON NOTES

New York, Nov. 1. (UP).—General rains are reported from northern sections of the cotton belt where remnants of the crop remain to be picked.

Interior movement of cotton is expected to fall off shortly, it being believed the peak of the intioight movement was reached last week when it was the highest of the season.

World consumption of American cotton in September totaled 1,108,000 bales against 7,028,000 in August, 928,000 in July, and 1,019,000 in September, 1931.

Cotton exports for the season to date total 2,027,035 bales, against 1,797,898 bales a year ago at this time.

RULES GIVEN TO JOB SEEKERS

Boston, Nov. 1. (UP).—Want a job?

Professor Charles E. Bellamy, head of the advertising department of Boston University's College of Business Administration, has compiled the following do's and don'ts for job-hunters:

"Tap on an office door before you open it; enter with a pleasant look on your face; remove your hat, but don't place it on a desk; stand quietly at a respectful distance from the occupants of the office; don't be the first to shake hands, either when you arrive, or when you leave, don't 'pull up' a chair unless you are asked to do so; try to be a good listener; don't slouch in your chair, or lean

"—my skin became clear..."

—and you don't know what a happy day that was in my life." Then why not pause a moment and reason in a common-sense way the cause of many skin troubles. Such common ailments often result because of a lowered resistance below the skin surface—frequently due to lowered blood vitality. Increase the red-blood-cells and their hemoglobin content and more of the life giving oxygen is carried to every part of the body—even to the skin. "Step up" the ability of the red cells to devour infectious simple germs. Then you will have laid the foundation for a sounder physical condition.

S.S.S. in addition to being a valuable general tonic, has the special property of increasing the red-cells and restoring the hemoglobin content of the blood, when deficient. It is time-tested... tens of thousands of unsolicited letters of gratitude cover several generations evidence its merit. Don't let anyone "switch" you in your determination to restore your red-blood-cells and their hemoglobin content. How Democrats May Vote For ORVILLE BULLINGTON FOR GOVERNOR

Orville Bullington

Assuming you want to vote for ROOSEVELT and GARNER and all the rest of the Democratic nominees, except Mrs. Miriam Ferguson, the only name you mark out in the Democratic column is Mrs. Miriam Ferguson, as shown below. In the Republican column you mark out everything from top to bottom, except Orville Bullington. In the next column, the Socialist, you draw a line from top to bottom, and the same for the other five columns. If two gubernatorial candidates' names appeared unmarked, neither would get a vote and your ballot would not be counted. You must leave all the 23 electors unmarked in the party you want and mark out all of them in the other columns in order to cast a vote for your presidential choice.

Below is the important corner of the official ballot correctly marked if you want ROOSEVELT, GARNER and BULLINGTON and the rest of the Democratic nominees.

GOV. STERLING STILL SILENT AS TO SESSION

Austin, Nov. 1. (UP)—J. Edgar Pew of Dallas, James Elkins of Houston and R. E. Hardwick of Fort Worth, members of a committee of oil producers asking Gov. Ross S. Sterling for a special session of the state legislature, were here today seeking the governor's answer to their request. They seek a law, similar to that of Oklahoma, under which oil production may be limited to market demand.

It was learned the governor has asked the attorney general for a ruling on whether the 42nd legislature or the 43rd legislature, to be elected on Nov. 8, would sit after Nov. 8 and before next January. When C. M. Cureton, now Chief Justice of the State Supreme Court, was an assistant attorney general he advised Governor O. B. Colquitt that the old legislature would sit until January. He held this view in face of a constitutional provision that representatives have terms of two years from the "day" they are elected, saying that provision must be construed with others.

Governor Colquitt did not call the session, so there was no test of the matter, then.

Meanwhile notice has come to Assistant Attorney General Maurice Cheek that the U. S. Supreme Court has fixed Dec. 6 as the time for hearing arguments in an appeal from a federal court decision holding previous oil proration orders of the Texas Railroad Commission in East Texas invalid. A new federal court decision, which has precipitated the demand for a special session of the legislature, applies to proration orders issued under a law passed after the first case was decided.

An injunction against enforcement of proration orders against certain operators in the Yates pool, led today to the issuance of a commission order increasing the pool allowable. To have kept the old allowable, the commission said, would work injustice to operators who tried to obey it and did not apply for a court order.

SPORTS

By HENRY M'LEMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent
New York, Nov. 1. (UP)—The season on football coaches is wide open.

This department, through its amateur scouts scattered over the country, has been "reliably" informed that Hunk Anderson is washed up at Notre Dame; Jackson Cannell has played out his string at Dartmouth; Navy Bill Ingram is sunk at California; Mal Stevens is done for at Yale; Frank Cavanaugh is on the way out at Fordham and Frank Carideo is soon to be shown the front door at Missouri.

You will notice that these gentlemen are coaches of teams that have taken it on the chin this year. Thus it would seem the boys and girls are still asking for a winner. No, asking is too gentle a word; they're demanding one. The reason for such a demand is not hard to figure out. It takes a winning football team to pack the customers in the stands at $2, $3 and $4 a head. And packing them in at such prices is the only way the schools can meet the notes on their huge athletic plants.

It's unfortunate for those working for the cause of de-emphasis in football that the depression arrived just when their efforts were showing a gain. For the depression, instead of furthering de-emphasis, increased the need for winning teams.

Not so long ago a winning team was mostly a matter of pride, and when a winning team did not materialize it was pride, and nothing much else, that suffered. Today the lack of a triumphant eleven hits the pocketbook first, and the pride second.

And a blow to the exchequer is twice as painful as a punch to the pride.

If the gentlemen mentioned above are fired, who will succeed them is not known. Ever since Anderson stepped into the impossible task of filling Rockne's seven league boots, the boys have been naming his successor. Their guesses have ranged from Harry Stuhldreher to Ella Boole.

The Irish have had as many proposed bosses as the Cincinnati Reds. Right now Slip Madigan of St. Mary's, Jimmy Phelan at Washington and Jimmy Crowley of Michigan State are being mentioned as Anderson's successor. Madigan and Crowley, along with Hiker Joy, present assistant coach at Fordham, have been mentioned as likely successors to Cavanaugh. Jack Sutherland, Pittsburgh's ray of sunshine, has been touted to go to Yale, but the Blue authorities denied last night they had made Sutherland any sort of offer. Some sideline experts think Albie Booth eventually will take charge at New Haven.

Jess Hawley, ex-Dartmouth skipper, and Myles Lane, now head man at Boston University, have been mentioned in connection with Cannell's job. Nobody has as yet broached a candidate to follow Carideo at Missouri. The more one reads about that Missouri team the more one is inclined to believe that not until they engage Chandu the Magician will the show-me boys break into the winning column.

STERLING'S FARM SOLD TO SATISFY JUDGMENT OF $500

Houston, Texas, Nov. 1. (UP)—Governor Ross S. Sterling's farm, located in the rear of his luxurious bayshore residence near Laporte, was sold for $500 today to satisfy a judgment.

The purchaser was Mrs. Louise Carson who with Mrs. Louise C. Williams and Mrs. Margaret C. Hamblen held a $7,822.05 judgment against Sterling and his son-in-law, Wyatt C. Hedrick, Fort Worth architect.

The sale was conducted on the courthouse steps by a deputy sher-

Hornsby Rejoins His Old Team

Rogers Hornsby, who in 1926 was released as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals baseball team after leading them to the world championship, and who last summer was dethroned as manager of the Chicago Cubs, recently caused considerable surprise in the baseball world when he was signed up again with the Cardinals. He is seen (left) signing his contract in the presence of Branch Rickey, general manager, and Sam Breadon, president of the St. Louis baseball club.

iff over the protest of R. Wayne Lawler, Sterling's attorney, who claimed the farm was part of the law a real estate holding must be "less than 120 acres" to be classed as a homestead.

The property includes 19 blocks in the town of Laporte and parts of two other blocks. Under Texas law a real estate holding must be "less than 120 acres" to be classed as a homestead.

Following The BIG DOGS of the Sport World by the "Little Dogs"

We are going to start off today with a few tenuous freedoms concerning pep squads. Now there are pep squads and pep squads. The underlying reason for pep squads is, of course, to cheer the boys who are out on the field fighting for dear old alma mater. In connection with this ulterior motive, the pep squad usually puts on some stunt between halves which adds color and entertainment to the occasion.

Our idea of a real pep squad is one composed of the dates of the members of the football squad. Such an arrangement as that would enable the girls to burst forth into song on the least occasion. Suggestions for vocal exercise would be to sing "My Man," "Somebody Loves You," and other selections along the same line. That ought to inspire the boys to bigger and better things.

Up at Greenville last Friday night the Lion pep girls went out between halves and staged a splendid performance by going through various formations while carrying flashlights. The flood lights had been turned out, and the effect was that of a host of fireflies flitting about. If that blonde cheer leader from Highland Park had been in the mixup we might have reverted back to our barefoot boy days and gone firefly hunting.

We are not citing the above stunt with any intention of maligning the stunts of the local pep squads. We merely note it in passing. We always heard that the way to contented marriage was to pay particular attention to the wives of everybody else—and that same line would hold for pep squads, sport columns or what have you.

Originality, whether it be in pep squad stunts, football, or anything else, is highly desirable, though there must always be limitations. For example, several of the boys on the Maverick squad this year seemed inclined to be original about running the various plays. Coach Willis, generally, doesn't approve of the boys putting their own variations to his plays. It is not at all uncommon to hear him, after some play aimed at center ends up around right end, address some original player at some length and in terms which no one, either human or divine, could construe as worshipful.

And yet some of the boys get by with it occasionally. A couple of years back Jim Hadlock and Chester Weidman concocted a play of their own. It never had a name. Jim just said, "I'll run out there and you throw it to me." The funny part of it was that it worked, though not even the rest of the team knew what was coming off.

But to get over into something more cheerful, we have some good news and some bad news. The bad news is that Wilford Sanford, Maverick halfback, was to be operated on for appendicitis Tuesday. That means his being lost to the team for this year. The good news is that "Bubba" Hess and Jack Crane of the C. O. M. squad will be able to play again in their next game which is two weeks off. The doctor said Hess' fractured wrist will heal quickly and Crane's cracked rib will be all right by the time the Tigers are ready to take on the Centenary freshmen.

Another thing which gladdened our eyes was the way Bernard West was cutting up in the Maverick backfield Monday evening. It looked like old times again to see him sprint through a hole, and then twist and wiggle his way down to the goal line. Mebbe so the Mavs will be heard of yet. And for Greenville's benefit we saw lots of other things, but to say what they were would be telling. Bring on your Lions, Wildcats, Panthers, etc.

After the death of his wife, Michael Moore, a talented but rockless artist, leaves his twin children, Adam and Eve, in the care of their grandmother and goes abroad. Finally there comes the word of his remarriage. Years pass and Adam and Eve have become a young man and a beautiful girl. Adam is injured in an automobile accident and it is feared that he will be a cripple for life. Eve secures a position in a brokerage house.

CHAPTER VIII.

But you didn't get that order to sell—what's worrying you?" Eve repeated, urging Martin White to confide further.

"What I think—and what I can prove in court—they are two different things. Can I prove in court that I didn't receive that selling order? You know how it is, the exchange ruling lets us buy and sell on telephone orders. Of course, we are supposed to have written confirmation later, but we don't always have that, as you know."

"Now Hammill claims that he phoned an order to sell out for 10,000 shares. There was no one in the office who will admit receiving that call. No memorandum—nothing. He got caught and it wiped him out. Now he's trying to claim that we juggled his account by selling it high on Monday to cover ourselves and rebuying it low the next day and that we are handing him the loss we should have taken."

"But it seems to me he has an awful nerve," Eve put in, "trying to frame something like that against you."

"Well, my dear, if you held 10,000 shares on margin bought at 285 and saw it slide downhill, you might try and throw a few thousand into a suit on the chance you might get some of it back."

"Isn't there any way out of it?" "The only thing is to get a written statement from Hammill releasing us from responsibility. He says his telephone operator has a record of a call to this office just about the time he claims he phoned his selling order. That, of course, is easily fixed up in his office but we have no proof here that his call did or did not come through, except that there is no record here of having that selling order."

"But certainly you don't expect this Hammill to give you a release on the very thing for which he's trying to sue you," Eve looked at Martin White unbelievably. For the first time he seemed utterly and naively that he should expect a client of his to sign away all rights.

"That, my dear, is called 'settlement out of court.' I'll be willing to credit him with a certain amount provided he will sign a release."

"But that's admitting you were wrong, isn't it?" "No, it's admitting we can't prove we're right and that we're willing to take a loss and check it up against the possibility of a further loss."

"Then I should think if you made an offer like that he would immediately be sure he could win in court."

"That's exactly what has me stopped. What I've been trying to do for the last two months is to wheedle him into suggesting a settlement, but just because he is a young lawyer he thinks he can pick me at my own game. Frankly, I don't think he could get a cent if he took it to court but I can't afford to let him go that far with it."

Martin White spoke bitterly. He was chagrined to think that a young lawyer could throw any kind of a scare into him. But that was exactly what Peter Hammill had done.

"Then Eve spoke up brightly: 'I have an idea!'" "Oh, yes," Martin White tried to keep the sarcasm out of his voice. For after all, the whole business had him stopped; perhaps a woman's intuition might find a loophole.

"Is this, Peter Hammill very old?" "I thought I told you he was young. That's just the trouble. If he were older he'd have more sense."

"Is he good-looking?" "Most women think he is, although, he isn't what I'd call handsome, but there's about six feet of him and he has a good tail—or, say, what are you driving at?"

"Just a notion of mine. I thought maybe a young and rather attractive girl might be able to talk him into doing something—she paused for a moment—"that he wouldn't do for a rather oldish, blustering man."

"Oh, yes—so I'm old and blustering, am I? And I suppose I'm a double-dyed fool as well. I suppose you're the brains of this company now. I suppose I don't know anything about Wall Street, the market—or anything."

Martin White was furious. "All right, if you think you're so smart, go ahead and see what you can do with him. I'll get him down here tomorrow. Turn those great big blue eyes of yours on him and I'll lay you fifty to one on the line that you can't even get him out to lunch."

"That isn't the kind of a job you handle over the luncheon table."

"What?" "Well, that young Harvard boy outside doesn't sell Mrs. De Puyster 10,000 shares of Carbonita Oil by taking her out to lunch, does he? If he didn't have a good-looking tuxedo and didn't show up at her parties when she's short of personable young men, I doubt very much whether he would ever sell anything to her."

Martin White lost his bad temper in a good, deep laugh.

"Right you are. Well, he's all yours. I still bet you can't get him out to lunch, to say nothing of hooking him for an evening party."

"Don't be absurd. I've just the dress to do it in. And if we only have some good Spring weather pretty soon and he has an open roadster I'll have that release for you inside of a week. A hundred against your fifty I do it inside of a week."

Martin White's hand went to the telephone receiver, then he looked at Eve sharply.

"No—I won't talk to that pirate again. You call him and make the appointment yourself. If you are going to handle this, start in right now."

Eve went outside into her small office and straight to the phone. "Get me Peter Hammill, please."

In a few moments the connection was made.

"Mr. Hammill? This is Eve Moore, Martin White's secretary. He has asked me to get in touch with you. He wants to see you tomorrow. Do you think you could manage to drop down?"

"Who?—What?—Who's this?" "This is Eve Moore speaking, Mr. Hammill, Mr. White's secretary. He wants to see you tomorrow at eleven."

"Oh, yes, yes—You say he wants me to come down and see him?" "Well, that's what he said Mr. Hammill. Of course," She hesitated for a moment.

"All right. What time did you say?" "About eleven."

"Tell him," the voice came back over the phone. "I'll try to make it."

Eve put down the receiver. So that was Peter Hammill. A rather nice voice—but a stubborn one.

It was nearer eleven thirty than eleven the next day when the telephone girl announced:

"Mr. Peter Hammill to see Mr. White."

Eve smiled to herself. "Send him in," she told the girl. (To be continued.)

AIR MAIL ROUTE TO WEST COAST EXTENDED

Washington, Nov. 1. (UP)—Acting in response to the increased popularity of its transcontinental air mail route, the post office department announced an extension of mail and passenger services between New York and Los Angeles.

Beginning today, the department said, there will be three transcontinental dispatches out of New York daily instead of two, comprising an additional round trip of passenger service between New York, Philadelphia, Harrisburg, and Pittsburgh, Pa., Columbus, O., Indianapolis, Ind., and St. Louis and Kansas City, Mo.

Austin, Nov. 1. (UP)—Petty thefts of stamps, desk equipment and other small articles at the state capital are expected to end with police announcement today that three youths have confessed that they have been eluding vigilance of the capital guards and have been prowling offices for months.

Tomatoes Can Be Used in Dozens of Ways

IT WOULD be too bad not to take advantage of the plentifulness of tomatoes at this time. If your family like them, you will find it economical to buy tomatoes by the basket and to serve them often, either raw or cooked, for any meal of the day. If there is any danger of their spoiling, you can readily convert them into spicy chili sauces or preserves.

MEAT PIE NEW AUTUMN DISH

You don't have to live in the country to have excellent meat pies—but you're lucky if you do—that is, lucky to have the meat pies. You can bake the same sort if you go in for big, deep-dish pies with the golden crust crimped all around their generous circumference. But be sure that the insides are savory and the crust is flaky, melt-in-your-mouth variety. These are served as the main dish of the meal, and since they often contain vegetables as well as meat, they need only a salad dressing, and a sweet for dessert, to sum total a very excellent meal.

Individual meat pies are very satisfactory and served in blue or brown pottery they look very tempting on the table. Why not have several excellent recipes for meat pies to solve the eternal what shall-we-have for these chilly days that are on the way. You will like these tested ones.

Beef and Mushroom Pie. Take 1 cup mushrooms, slice and saute five minutes in 3 tablespoons butter. Add enough water to the mushrooms to make 2 1/2 cups. Smooth 3 tablespoons flour to a paste with the liquid, add slowly to the butter and mushrooms and cook until creamy. Add 1 bouillon cube and 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1 1/2 cups small potato balls or diced potatoes and 2 1/2 cups cooked beef cut in cubes. Pour into baking dish, cover with a crust or with small baking powder biscuits and bake in a hot oven—400 degrees—for 35 to 45 minutes. Serves eight.

WIN FAIR PREMIUMS. F. D. Roland, colored county agricultural agent, has reported that boys working under his supervision took four prizes out of nine entries at the State Fair of Texas. There were three first prizes and one four prize. Corn and hogart exhibits took the premiums.

BIRTH CONTROL FOR VERA CRUZ IS OBLIGATORY

Is Only One Feature Of New Legal Code For Mexican State

Vera Cruz, Mexico, Nov. 1. (UP)—Birth control became legally obligatory in the state of Vera Cruz today when the new civil code went into effect.

The exact method of enforcement of the birth control feature will not be known until the executive establishes the birth control bureau authorized by the code.

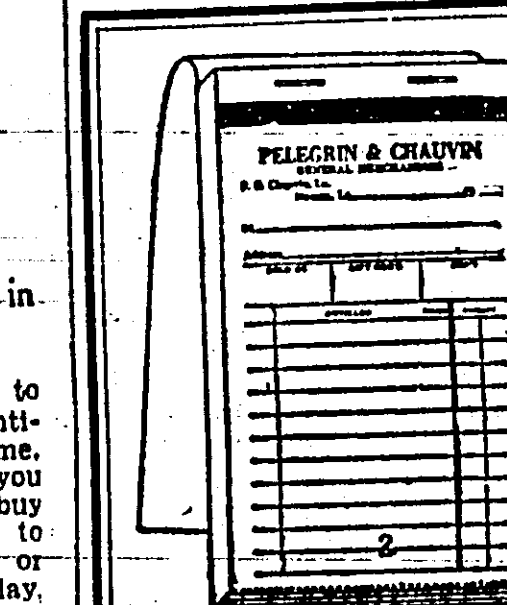

Dr. Salvador Mendoza, author of the code, said in an interview the birth control feature has a sociological purpose, the government hoping through its enforcement to mitigate poverty, reduce the number of children suffering from malnutrition and, by sterilization of the physically unfit, to prevent the transmission of their weaknesses to their offspring.

The state's decision to control the birth rate of its inhabitants was considered to be due principally to political and sociological reasons, rather than to a deliberate anti-religious drive, although Vera Cruz has been in the forefront of legislation restricting religion.

The birth control provision, authorities said, is really a minor part of the new code which represents Governor Alberto Tejeda's advanced ideas of the social obligations of the government, including many provisions expected, for example, to lighten court costs for

SPECIAL FARE PRIVILEGES ARE DENIED CLERGYMEN BY EASTERN RAILROADS

New York, Nov. 1. (UP)—The depression has hit the clergymen again, this time depriving them of special fare privileges on eastern railroads.

They have been permitted to travel on mileage books under reduced rates, just as has been the case with express and telegraph company employees, and railroad pensioners.

The presidents of the eastern roads announced today that "effective Jan. 1, 1933," such reduced fares will be granted only to directors, officers and employees of railroads as an economy measure.

For some one, every day, the biggest news is not on the front page. It's not even in the news columns.

There may be an earthquake in Italy or a revolution in Central America. There may be a hot election campaign or a million-dollar fire or a metropolitan crime wave. But for Jim Jones, who has decided to buy a new sedan, and for Mrs. Thompson, who needs some school-dresses for little Mary Lou, the BIG news of the day is in the ADVERTISEMENTS.

Even the doings of Congress and the big football game results pale into significance beside the news of something you really want.

The advertising columns bring you, each day, sound information about quality, style and price. They announce new products and new developments that save time, trouble or expense for millions of people. They point out healthful habits of eating, sleeping, exercising.

Consistently advertised goods are safe to buy. Behind them stand the manufacturer and the merchant, guaranteeing their uniform quality. Read the advertisements before you buy.

THREE TALKS BY ROOSEVELT ARE PLANNED

Woonsocket, R. I., and Winstead and Canaan, Conn., before returning to his Hyde Park, N. Y., home tonight, thus completing a swing through the five New England states.

Roosevelt spoke before 15,000 enthusiastic Democrats in the Boston arena, thrusting sharply at the president, and following it up with an enunciation of his three-point plan for unemployment relief and a "reiteration" of his policies regarding the "forgotten man."

He also accused the administration of "an outpouring of misstatements" and the spreading of fear "through certain Republican industrial leaders."

Roosevelt summed up the Republican campaign by ascertaining that as a storm of approval for the Democratic policies has grown, "several moods have come over the utterances of the president, and his supporters."

"First," he charged, "they were plaintively apologetic; then they were indignant at Congress. Finally they have in desperation resorted to the breeding of fear."

"At first the President refused to recognize he was in a contest. But as the people have responded to our program with enthusiasm he recognized we were both candidates. And then dignity died."

"At Indianapolis he spoke of my arguments—misquoting them. But at Indianapolis he went further. He abandoned argument for personalities."

Commenting on the economic situation, Roosevelt said "the administration attempts to undermine reason through fear—to tell us that the world will come to an end on November 8 if they are not returned to power for four years more."

"They crack," he asserted, "the whip of fear over the backs of American voters."

Declaring that even Ambassador Andrew Mellon in England "invokes the same sinister threat and seeks to spread it to the rest of the civilized world," the governor then told the story of the Roman senator who threw himself into a chasm to save his country.

"These gentlemen are of a new breed," he observed. "They are willing to throw their country into a chasm to save themselves."

His mention of Mellon's name drew a chorus of boos from the audience in which were liberally sprinkled signs proclaiming the early return of beer, support of the veterans for Roosevelt and others bearing the legend "$85,000,000 for Daves but not a cent for the needy."

Attacking the leadership of President Hoover, the governor said:

"You know, and I know, that the Democratic party is not satisfied merely with arresting the present decline, but that we seek to build up and improve—to put our industries into a position where their wheels will turn and where opportunity will be given them to re-employ the millions workers they have laid off."

He said the Hoover administration neglected to take advantage of the suggestions in the five-point program for unemployment relief, which was drawn up during the 1922 depression under the leadership of the President who was then Secretary of Commerce.

Roosevelt then offered his program for relief, embodying among other things, the following:

1. Aid to the immediately distressed.
2. Permanence of employment through scientific planning.
3. Expediting of actual construction of federal public works.

He called also for a co-ordinated system of employment exchanges, the advance planning of public works, and unemployment reserves.

SEVERED BODY OF MAN IS FOUND ON RAILROAD TRACKS

Texarkana, Ark., Nov. 1. (UP).—J. E. (Cordwood) Givens, 28, was found dead on the Missouri Pacific tracks here this morning, the body cut in two by a train.

Miller and Bowie County officers are working on the theory that Givens was murdered and the body placed on the tracks. Efforts are being made to locate a Lincoln car in which Givens was seen riding at midnight. Nothing had been learned of this car or a companion of Givens early this morning.

The body was found several hours after his mother, Mrs. Stella Givens, had asked officers to search for him.

Miss Katie Bell Lister, who was the last known person to see Givens alive stated this morning they went to a theater, returned to her home about 10:30 p. m. and that he then left her presumably to go home.

BRITONS SAY COMMUNISTS LED MARCH

London, Nov. 1. (UP).—An army of efficiently-working police, supported by a veritable armed fortress, forestalled threatened rioting of unemployed tonight in front of the parliament buildings.

The government, in the meantime, moved to show that the recent "hunger march" on London was inspired and led by communists.

London, Nov. 1. (UP).—Scotland Yard raided the dingy, smoke-filled headquarters of England's "hunger marchers" today and arrested leaders of the unemployed demonstrators while police were mobilizing to prevent disorders in a threatened march on parliament.

Serious rioting which began with the mass demonstration in Hyde Park Thursday has been openly charged to communists in the press and in parliament.

W. A. L. Hamlington, one of the organizers of the march on London, was charged with inciting mutiny. Another leader arrested at headquarters of the national unemployed workers movement was detailed on a charge of distributing seditious literature.

Eight plainclothes men from Scotland Yard conducted the raid quietly while uniformed men guarded nearby streets. The two men arrested were taken off to Bow Street station. Detectives searched the headquarters, a small second floor room guarded by a door chain, and seized numerous documents which they piled into a taxicab.

NEGRO IS GIVEN 99-YEAR TERM

Houston, Texas, Nov. 1. (UP).—Cleveland Davis, 20, negro, today was found guilty of criminal assault upon a young white woman and sentenced to 99 years imprisonment by a district court jury.

The woman's identity was withheld. She is 23 years old and works in a factory.

The verdict was handed to Judge Whit Boyd at 10:15 a. m. The jury received the case at nine o'clock last night after the prosecution had demanded the death penalty for Davis.

In a courtroom cleared of all spectators, the 23-year-old woman told the jurors Davis held her male companion at bay with a pistol while Tom Cook, 30, negro, attacked her. Cook is under indictment.

Davis admitted the truth of her testimony, asserting he participated in the offense because he feared Cook would kill him.

The alleged attack occurred on a suburban roadside last July 20. The jury was locked up for the night.

KEPT CLIPPINGS

Chicago, Nov. 1. (UP).—The late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick collected newspaper clippings about herself, a claim filed against her estate revealed today. The claim was for $264 in payment for several thousand clippings supplied between May and August of this year.

BLAZING WELL EXTINGUISHED LATE TUESDAY

after 2 a. m. today and was heard here. No one was on duty near the well at the time of the explosion and there were no casualties.

The fire increased in fury throughout the morning as the connections melted away allowing greater gas and oil flow. Employees of the Shell Company were rushed from Kilgore and from Longview to combat the blaze.

E. O. Buck, petroleum engineer in charge of the fire fighting crews, said all indications point toward deliberate dynamiting of the well. He said apparently a charge of dynamite was set off near the top of the well. The explosion cracked the Christmas tree connections and from first examinations it is believed the casings are shattered.

The well is located in a tract of 11 other Shell producers, the nearest of which is 600 feet away. It is believed other wells of the company are not endangered inasmuch as ditches were constructed about the well before the fire started.

Cause of the dynamiting was a mystery, both to company officials and to county officers.

At Dallas, headquarters of Shell, officials said they have no information about trouble which could have led to the sabotage.

The dynamiting is the second in the East Texas field within the past several months. A well owned by the Humble Oil & Refining Company was dynamited in the Kilgore area recently, but the well was shut off before fire started. The explosion was never explained.

"FLYING GRANDMOTHERS" CONTINUE WESTWARD TO AID HOOVER CAMPAIGN

Chicago, Nov. 1. (UP).—The "flying grandmothers"—Mrs. H. Foster Bain and Mrs. Samuel A. Dolbear of New York City—continued into Iowa today to aid President Hoover's campaign.

Their stumping trip was delayed yesterday when the two women made a forced landing in a forest preserve, damaging the plane which Mrs. Bain was piloting. The "flying grandmothers" were uninjured beyond a few bruises.

They plan to return here Wednesday and to fly back to New York in their repaired plane this week-end. Mrs. Bain, who is 58, and her companion, who is 50, recently stumped in eastern states for Mr. Hoover.

He ruled the parlor would be a gambling den.

GOBLINS PROVE BANDITS

Reno, Nev., Nov. 2. (UP).—Reno's merchants and bartenders, who discovered an unexpected business boom in what started out to be a panic, opened shop today eager to find out what would happen next.

In the first 24 hours of a two-week "banking holiday" that saw most of the financial institutions in the state closed, economic laws were turned topsy-turvy, spending was on a scale unequalled in recent months.

The police station was doing the biggest banking business in town. Dice rattled with new vigor and roulette wheels whirled and spun incessantly as gambling picked up.

"This," tradesmen and divorce lawyers murmured sadly to themselves at the first shock of the moratorium, "is going to be awful. All the money is locked up. We'll be taking in cows on the hoof for canned peaches, and chickens for divorce decrees."

LEGION BANQUET
THURSDAY NIGHT

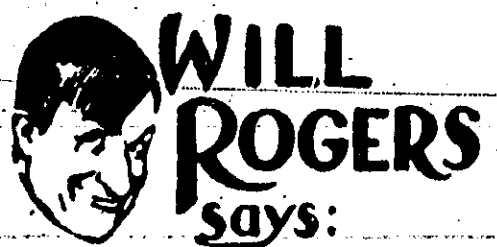

Carl Nesbitt, of Mineola, state commander of the American Legion, and C. C. Denman, second district committeeman, of Nacogdoches, will be honor guests of the local post at a banquet and installation of officers Thursday night.

Nesbitt, paying his first official visit to the local organization since his election two months ago, will deliver the principal address at a program following the dinner.

The Rev. H. F. Selcer, local commander, who will be succeeded by A. W. Dodge, announced that all ex-service men are invited to attend the meeting. The dinner will be free, he said.

It will be held at the Elks hall, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

A committee of local veterans will greet Commander Nesbitt upon his arrival.

Will Rogers says:

New York, Nov. 2.—There should be a moratorium called on candidates' speeches. They have both called each other everything in the world they can think of. From now on they are just talking themselves out of votes. The high office of president of the United States has degenerated in two ordinary fine men being goaded on by their political leeches into saying things that if they were in their right minds they wouldn't think of saying.

Imagine Mr. Hoover last night saying "any change of policies will bring disaster to every firebrand in America." Of all the conceits! This country is a thousand times bigger than any two men in it, or any two parties in it. These big politicians are so serious about themselves and their parties. This country has gotten where it is in spite of politics, not by the aid of it.

So you and Mr. Roosevelt just get the weight of the world off your shoulders and go fishing. Both of you claim you like to fish. Now, instead of calling each other names till next Tuesday, why, you can do everybody a big favor by going fishing, and you will be surprised but the old United States will keep right on running while you boys are sitting on the bank. Then come back next Wednesday and we will let you know which one is the lesser of the two evils of you. Yours,

Will Rogers.

Washington, Nov. 2. (UP).—Financial policies of the administration were defended as paving the way for economic recovery and assailed as converting the country into "a national pawnshop" in speeches here last night by Secretary of Treasury Mills and Senator Glass (Dem.) Virginia, former holder of the same cabinet position.

Mills' address was in rebuttal to that of Glass delivered just previously. The secretary's decision to make a prompt reply to one of the most scathing indictments of the campaign caused Glass to conclude his speech with a charge that Mills had obtained unethically a copy of his manuscript in advance.

Mills' answer was that it was "well-known" that copies of opposition speeches "find their way" into the rival camps.

Glass departed from his man-

Houston, Tex., Nov. 2. (UP).—Bandits kidnaped an aged man, threw him from an automobile after robbing him, and staged five other holdups last night and early today to gain $119.08 in cash.

W. L. Myers, 59, was the kidnaped victim. He lost $3 and suffered a severe head injury when he was flung from the car. He was standing on a street corner and accepted the bandits' invitation to ride.

The other offenses entered on the police blotter were petty robberies of grocery stores and drug store errand boys.

Chicago, Nov. 2. (UP).—Chief of Detectives William Shoemaker inadvertently ruined a directors' meeting of Chicago's unofficial Amalgamation of Professional Gangsters Tuesday when he blundered into a handsome office high in one of the city's finest skyscrapers.

The chief blinked. So did the 10 gangsters, who were discussing business like so many bank presidents, when he entered.

At the head of a mahogany directors' table sat handsome Murray Humphries, who stepped into Al Capone's shoes when the Scar-face went to the penitentiary.

At Humphries' right sat William (Kondike) O'Donnell, terror of the South side beer vendors.

Marcus (Studdy) Looney, underworld love maker whose best girl recently committed suicide, lolled back in a leather chair at Humphries' left.

Down the sides of the polished table were the Messrs. Thomas Cullen, John O'Brien, Joe Marino, Sam Alex, William Martin and Charles Frascchetti, all gang powers and all smoking cigars like directors of a steel company about to pass a dividend.

At the other end of the table Jack (Three-Finger) White was taking his ease. His best known exploit was an attempt to put an

Through New England States

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 2. (UP).—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt was at "home" in Albany again today, to spend a comparatively restful 24 hours before he enters the home stretch of his race for the presidency.

On his day's program, in contrast to the whirlwind finish of his "four-day campaign" in New England, which ended last night after he had spurred homeward at 65 miles an hour over rain-soaked roads, were only a few conferences with his advisers and one public address, scheduled for the evening.

The finish of the governor's campaign to win the New England states found him driving for 13 hours through cold and rain, along a route that carried him for 300 miles through the mill towns of Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

Roosevelt's appearances in the final phases of his tour were necessarily brief, and were hampered by weather conditions that forced him to use a closed limousine instead of the open automobile that had carried him through Massachusetts and Maine. But he was able to extend his "best wishes" to the crowds through a microphone thrust into his hands.

A driving rain struck the candi-

Bucharest, Nov. 2. (UP).—Princess Helene, divorced wife of King Carol, won her fight today for partial custody of her son, 11-year-old Crown Prince Michael.

An official communique announced that complete agreement had been reached regarding Michael, as well as regarding Helene's civil list—the amount she receives from the crown for her support. Details of the agreement will be published after Helene leaves Bucharest within a few days.

The United Press was advised in authoritative quarters that Helene was granted custody of her son for six months annually, and was left free to determine whether the boy would be with her in Rumania or abroad.

It was also said that Helene would leave here tomorrow, probably for Italy, after Michael tells her goodbye.

Helene was understood to have waived the right to determine the form of her son's education.

4-DAY HOLIDAY
FOR OKLAHOMA

Oklahoma City, Ok., Nov. 2. (UP).—A holiday for all state employees from 2 p. m. next Saturday until 9 a. m. Wednesday, was declared today by Gov. W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray in an executive proclamation.

The move was a defiance and counter attack to political opponents of the fiery executive, who charged that thousands of employees of the Murray administration were devoting their time to campaigning for the governor's proposed income tax bill.

The controversial measure, up for a vote Tuesday after months of legal battles, promises to overshadow the presidential race in Oklahoma. Each of the 77 counties is a battleground on which Murray and anti-Murray speakers fight for ballots.

Never in the history of the state, officials said, has a governor extended an election holiday beyond the actual voting day.

Sitting in a downtown park and addressing 2,600 spectators for almost three hours, the governor spoke here last night for the first time in more than a year. He called the city's "Metropolitan press" "flunkies and sycophants of the high-binders."

FOUR MASKED BANDITS
RAID FT. WORTH CLUB

Fort Worth, Texas, Nov. 2. (UP).—Four masked bandits who robbed four slot machines in the basement of the Meadowbrook country club here were caught by police today.

They were believed to be the same men who Monday night stole automobiles and hijacked three couples in Cobb Park. They were disguised as Halloween clowns and fools.

The bandits broke down a barricaded door at the club last night, and forced six employees and attendants to lead them to the basement where the slot machines were kept. Amount of loot obtained from them was unknown.

Department officials made this statement after Assistant State Attorney John P. Hampton of Illinois conferred with assistant legal adviser Charles Baker of the department and presented evidence against Insull.

Hampton will take the extradition papers to the United States legation in Ottawa and have them authenticated. They will then be presented at a Canadian hearing on Insull's extradition, scheduled for Friday.

It also was learned that the Illinois state attorney's office expects before the end of the week to deposit with the state department evidence necessary to obtain extradition papers for Samuel Insull, Sr., Martin's brother, now in Greece.

FATHER OF FIVE
HELD AS BANDIT

Jacksboro, Texas, Nov. 2. (UP).—A 58-year-old husband and father of five children, E. C. Bratcher, Weatherford, Texas, was held in jail here today charged with the $1,200 robbery of the First State Bank at Bryson last Friday.

Bratcher was arrested at his home in Weatherford yesterday and brought here. He was remanded to jail when he failed to fill bond for $10,000.

Two men robbed the Bryson bank after forcing T. T. Stuart, bank president, and Miss Marie Henderson to lie on the floor with their faces to the wall. After looting the till, they locked Stuart and Miss Henderson in the vault, closed the doors of the bank, hung out the "closed" sign and fled in an automobile.

Bratcher admitted driving the bandit car, police said, but refused to identify his companion.

Bratcher had $12 on his person when arrested.

If Session Held

Austin, Texas, Nov. 2. (UP).—State Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman, after a conference with Gov. Ross S. Sterling this morning, announced that he is confident there will be a special session of the Texas legislature for oil legislation.

"I believe the session will be tomorrow," said Senator Woodward. He left for home preparing to return at once to Austin.

Woodward has been a floor leader for the administration in the state Senate.

Both Senators Walter Woodward and Walter Wood of Houston were conferring with the governor this morning. J. Edgar Few of Dallas, head of a committee of oil men asking for a special session, also saw the governor again today.

The session, which Woodward said can be under way tomorrow, is sought to enact a law similar to that of Oklahoma, under which the state can limit oil production to market demand.

Without a change in the law, all members of the State Railroad Commission have said they do not see how they can issue adequate proration orders for the East Texas field, and keep within the decision of federal courts as to their power. Senator Woodward confirmed a report nineteen senators have agreed that if the special session is called they will see that action of the special session is limited to the oil legislation and make the session short.

Nineteen are also said to have declared in favor of the market demand law.

The governor, it was learned, has been assured that there will be no difficulty about a change of legislators before January, opinions of the Attorney General's department holding new members do not take office until then.

The formal call for the session was expected by Senator Woodward to be out before night.

Governor Sterling began a conference with former Governor Dan Moody just before noon.

When Governor Sterling left his office for lunch shortly before one o'clock, he had made no definite announcement about the session.

After asking newspaper men if it would not be better to have any call in "documentary form," he said he might make up his mind when he returned from lunch.

GALE STRIKES SKYSCRAPERS OF MANHATTAN

Upper Floors Vibrate Under Wind Velocity of 95 M. P. H.

New York, Nov. 2. (UP)—A full gale whirled in from the North Atlantic Ocean Tuesday, hammering Long Island shores, swept 20 flimsy seaside bungalows into Jamaica Bay, toppled or unroofed 50 more and roared west to play among the Manhattan skyscrapers at 95 miles an hour.

Blase New York, which lifts an eyebrow at mid-western tornadoes, sampled the seaside equivalent this afternoon, and didn't care for the sample.

A deluge of rain came with the ocean blasts, blotting out the skyscraper peaks whose summits were lost in the whipping racing clouds. Wind gusts thundered and roared about these peaks. The upper floors vibrated slightly, a quite safe and normal procedure—in the uproar of the elements.

On the drenched street levels literally thousands of umbrellas were mushroomed inside out, littering the gutters from which street cleaners swept them wholesale.

Trees were uprooted, small boats and yachts were torn from moorings, the docks were wrecked, the excursion boat "Statue of Liberty" was driven ashore on Bedloe's Island, crowned by the copper-green statue.

The storm held up Governor Roosevelt's campaign party two hours in Massachusetts, toppled a 75-foot factory chimney in Philadelphia, and unroofed a chicken house at Valley Stream, L. I., leaving 50 chickens dead.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 2. (UP)—Small boats huddled in harbors last night as a heavy storm, already with the intensity of a fresh gale, approached the Oregon and Washington coast.

A 56-mile an hour gale was blowing at North Head. The barometer was falling rapidly at Coos Bay, North Head and Tatoosh Island, while storm warnings were posted from California to Cape Flattery.

Paris, Nov. 2. (UP)—North-westerly gales continued to lash the French coast Tuesday. The storm was so severe that boardwalks at Deauville and Trouville were smashed by the waves.

VIOLENCE MARKS CUBAN ELECTION IN PROVINCES

Havana, Cuba, Nov. 2. (UP)—Disorders were reported from several sections Monday as provincial elections to name 70 representatives and senators were held. Reports from all sections indicated a victory for the liberals.

One conservative party member was killed at Santa Clara. One conservative and one liberal were killed and several persons were wounded in disorders at Rodas near Cienfuegos. Shooting in other sections were reported, and several polling places were set afire.

Dissension in Ranks of Methodists

W. B. HAMILTON

The North Texas conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Gainesville, Saturday voted to accept the resignation of R. H. Shuttles, Dallas, as chairman of the board of trustees of Southern Methodist university. W. B. Hamilton of Wichita Falls was elected to succeed him. The session was stormy. Shuttles said educational and financial policies of Dr. C. C. Selcman, president of S. M. U., had prompted his resignation. Dr. Selcman declared Shuttles attempted to oust him because of Selcman's dry stand on prohibition.

NIMRODS RETURN TO LAKES TODAY FOR VENGEANCE ON DUCKS WHICH FAILED TO SHOW UP FOR OPENER

Nimrods who hied forth to Caddo Lake for the opening of the duck season yesterday at noon returned home last night with sad tales to tell.

The lake was there, the decoys quacked, the weather was airish, but alas there were few ducks. After roosting on their "arms," all day Monday, Monday night, and early Tuesday, eager hunters, ready for the heavy barrage, set out for blinds just before noon to be ready for the opening blast.

Decoys, live and wooden, were set out, guides and helpers schooled away, and quiet reigned. All was ready for the first flight to approach.

It seems it never did, but instead fowls came in singles and pairs. Replacing the roar and thunder of guns, were sharp bursts at intervals, indicating sparsity of targets.

Returning hunters said little shooting was done on Broadwater, but those who went to the woods fared better. The largest kill was made by one party from Longview, who bagged 21. They were on Clinton Lake. Marshall marksmen failed to fare so well, although the majority brought home food.

The "shot gun infantry," however, anything but discouraged, took the "water" again this morning for the first early shooting of the season.

FEDERAL FUNDS LENT TO CLEAR CITY OF SLUMS

Washington, Nov. 2. (UP)—The federal government Tuesday lent money to help clear a city of slums.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation advanced $3,957,000 to the Hillside Housing Corporation of New York to build model apartments for 1,581 families in the Bronx.

The loan is the first of three expected to be made to rid the East Side of its slum area—the largest in the United States and which for generations has ranked as a sociological problem.

NEGRO HOUSE DAMAGED

Threatening two adjoining houses, an early morning fire Tuesday morning gutted a small frame negro house in the north-western portion of the city. The origin of the blaze was not determined. The house was owned by Carey Abney.

BECKVILLE

Mrs. J. A. Crawford visited in Houston a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake LeGrone of Marshall spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Hillen. Another daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Smith of Longview, spent Sunday here.

The small son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Redmon, who is seriously ill with bronchial pneumonia, is thought to be a little better.

Mrs. H. G. Sparks, Worthy Matron of the Beckville chapter of Eastern Star, and Mrs. J. F. Rouse, and Mrs. Bess Harris, also members of the chapter, attended the Golden Jubilee convention in Fort Worth. They were accompanied as far as Dallas by Mrs. M. F. Edens, who visited her daughter, Mrs. W. K. Menefee, and by Mrs. E. T. Barton, who spent the time with her daughter, Mrs. Walter Thurman.

Mrs. J. W. Sharp has returned from a month's visit with her son, Hubert Sharp and family, in Oklahoma City, and her sister, Mrs. L. S. Metcalf in Venus. Mrs. Metcalf returned home with her for a visit with her son, V. L. Metcalf.

ESCAPES DEATH PENALTY

Chicago, Nov. 2. (UP)—Howard Bonham, who missed going to the electric chair by the narrowest of margins seven times in less than a year, escaped execution once and for all today, when the Governor commuted his sentence to 99 years imprisonment.

LITTLE BLACK BIRDIE GOES "TWEET TWEET"

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 2. (UP)—Sammie Shaw, 8, negro, went to the emergency hospital Tuesday.

"What's your trouble," inquired a hospital attaché.

"Tweet, tweet," replied Sammie.

And Sammie answered correctly, for the dusky youngster had a small whistle lodged in his throat, with the result that when he tried to talk he simply whistled.

Cal Cooke returned home Tuesday from a business trip to Amarillo.

SIXTEEN SAVED.

Stockholm, Sweden, Nov. 2. (UP)—Sixteen young men and women, utterly exhausted, were rescued in the Baltic Sea last night after having been adrift in a small boat since Sunday. The 16 set out from Gotland Sunday to view several Russian warships. Airplanes were enlisted in the search Tuesday.

Cross-Blending

WHAT IS IT...and how does it improve cigarette taste?

YOU'VE heard how fruit of one variety has been crossed with fruit of another to produce a new and more pleasing flavor. The loganberry, for example, is a cross between the raspberry and the blackberry.

Chesterfield's Cross-Blend gets the same result—better taste—by a different method.

It welds together the different kinds of several varieties of tobacco. Many types of Bright tobacco, a great many types of Burley tobacco, and numerous grades of Turkish tobacco are all merged into one—Chesterfield tobacco.

This welding or Cross-Blending goes beyond ordinary blending or mixing tobaccos together. It actually makes every kind of tobacco in Chesterfield partake of the qualities of every other type.

It's the Cross-Blending of fine Turkish and Domestic tobaccos that gives Chesterfields a distinctive, better taste.

They are milder. They have a flavor and aroma which, we believe, you will like.

Chief Shoemaker and a squad of detectives had raided the office at number 1 La Salle Street in hope of arresting White, who was wanted on a minor charge. Instead the chief nabbed the kingpins of the city's underworld.
"Ah, how do you do?" asked Humphries, smilingly when the officers entered. "We meet again."
Shoemaker felt him under the arm and extracted a revolver. The chief nudged all the rest of his impromptu hosts in the same place and found another gun on Franchetti. On top of a desk behind "Three Finger Jack" was a third gun. In a drawer of the desk was a fourth.
Shoemaker was so surprised that he arrested all the gangster chieftains and took them to the detective bureau where he figured out charges to place against them. He was sure they were doing something they shouldn't have, but he wasn't sure what it was.
"I understand they've gotten into the labor racket," he said, "and they probably were planning when we found them."
The 14th floor office had upon its door in gold lettering: "Charles T. Sullivan, contracting engineer."
Sullivan is a brother-in-law of the late Charles (Red) Barker, recently assassinated bomber. Barker's picture in a gold frame was on the center of the table where all the gangster-directors could gaze upon it.

small scale in south London. Thirty or more persons were estimated to have been injured in the fighting and many arrests were made. One detective who was attacked by a crowd in Prices Street was severely injured about the head and taken to a hospital.
Fairly normal conditions were restored in Whitehall, where the government offices are located, in Parliament Square and Victoria Street, where the rioting centered. Westminster Bridge, crossing the Thames near Parliament, was opened to traffic after three hours of siege, during which traffic was detoured and only pedestrians able to prove bone fide business were allowed to circulate.
The House of Commons arose at 11:02 p. m., the leaders of the hunger marchers having been unable to present their petition for relief, though four representatives of the unemployed gained access to the House and were received by George Lansbury, labor leader.
The rioting centered in the mile area from Trafalgar Square to the House of Commons on the banks of the Thames, along Whitehall and to Hyde Park. Mounted police galloped around Trafalgar Square as late as midnight, wielding batons and ruthlessly clearing away the thousands gathered there.
The streets where the trouble occurred were littered with hats, caps, canes and sticks which the demonstrators dropped when they fled from the police charges. Fifteen were treated for minor injuries. Scotland Yard announced that "many arrests were made" and that no police were injured, although it was known that at least one officer was severely hurt.

date's party when it reached Worcester, Mass., but several thousand persons, who had waited two hours beneath umbrellas to see him, defied the elements to receive his greeting.
The skies cleared after the party reached Brookfield, near Springfield, for the first halt for food. Then the governor swung southward towards Hartford, Conn., stopping a brief moment to wave to 2,000 at Springfield. He left Hartford without a set speech.
Tomorrow, the governor will make three speeches, two in Newark and Jersey City, and the third in the Metropolitan Opera House, New York. He will conclude his campaign with an address at Madison Square Garden Saturday.

Senator James Watson and other Indiana Republican leaders.
Others tentatively listed for Joliet, Ottawa, Peoria and Pekin, Ill., on the way to Springfield, and Carlinville and East St. Louis, Ill. Other stops may be added.
The itinerary on the way to Minnesota remained indefinite. The plans after his speech Saturday likewise remained "under discussion," said Walter H. Newton, his secretary.
"He may go to California—and he may not," Newton said. "There simply is no decision yet. He could leave Minnesota as late as Saturday night and get into Palo Alto in time to vote next Tuesday. He could make a speech on the eve of the election Monday night on the way to the Pacific Coast, winding up the campaign with the traditional appeal to the people of all parties to vote."
Meanwhile, the president devoted most of his time to writing his speeches for the week-end mid-western drive. He expected to remain away from the executive offices much of the time until he departs, probably around 5 p. m. tomorrow.

Mrs. Hoover, as usual, will accompany him. Newton will go as far as Minnesota, his home state, where he expects to make a "speech for two," remaining there even if Mr. Hoover goes on west. Tonight, the president at 10:15 (central standard time) will deliver a brief message of greeting to Californians over long-distance telephone, as part of the celebration of "California Day." He may say then whether he will go home to vote or not.

HOLIDAY

but luckily for business, the populace, like the banks, declared a holiday—but it was a buying holiday, a spending spree. Not in recent months, has business been so good.
The divorce business, one of Reno's most flourishing industries, went on as usual. Fifteen suits were filed yesterday, attorneys paying court fees in cash in each instance.
The First National was the only bank in the city to remain open. It stacked up $3,000,000 in cash. "Come and get it," invited President Richard Kirnan.
"Come again tomorrow," he urged at closing time.
Others, whose quiet withdrawals in recent weeks was in part responsible for the "moratorium," also found themselves with cash in their pockets, or hidden in their sugar-bowls.
The gambling halls had their thousands of dollars kept ever-ready to pay off winning streaks. There was at least $17,000,000 locked up in the closed banks. But there was $3,000,000 more in the First National, and thousands on thousands in pockets of citizens.
All the cash, so suddenly released from strongholds, began to rush into circulation.
Police Chief J. M. Kirkley urged citizens to leave their cash in the station safe. Thousands of dollars was "on deposit" there today.
One "holiday victim" was Delbert Hammond, who recently sold his nice little business—a cozy saloon—for $7,000.
Today he still had the $7,000, but it was locked up in the Reno National, one of the "holiday banks."

TWO FT. WORTH MEN VICTIMS OF GUNFIRE

Fort Worth, Texas, Nov. 2. (UP).—Gunfire had claimed two victims here today.
B. R. McLaughlin, 37, credit manager of the Ralston-Rutins Co., was found fatally wounded behind the Texas Christian University stadium late yesterday. The charge from a shotgun he had borrowed for duck hunting had struck him in the heart.
An inquest was to be conducted today.
Raymond Lopez, 44, Mexican laborer, died at the hands of an unknown assailant. He fell with two pistol bullets in his body as he crossed a street. A second Mexican was sought by police for questioning.

PARIS OPERA RENOVATED

Paris, (UP).—Thirty tons of scaffolding and 150 workmen will soon be removed from the Paris Opera, having completed four months' work of repairing on the historical monument. The washing of the giant edifice is about completed and directors are contemplating redecoration of the vast interior.

spite of the rather violent remark of Senator Glass."

"There is no occasion for any ill feeling," he continued.

He sharply criticized economic and financial policies of recent Republican administrations, denied the gold standard was at one time seriously endangered as the President asserted in his Des Moines speech, and defended the congressional record of Democrats on unemployment relief and financial legislation.

Mills replied with a declaration that if President Hoover is permitted to carry on the administration's economic program "recovery may soon be within our reach and we may not have to wait much longer for the dawn of the day to which we have been looking forward."

The treasury secretary denied Glass' charge that funds of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had been used for political purposes, charged that most "unsound legislation" introduced in the last session of Congress had Democratic origin and accused Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of keeping silent on the question of currency inflation.

Glass declared the president was "either indifferent of the facts or indifferent to the truth" in his statement that at one time this year the country was nearly forced from the gold standard.

WE have reached the point where it is not an auspicious time to predict the outcome of the election. It is so near election day that readers are likely to remember prognostications and make some embarrassing comparisons after the results are known. Maury Hughes, state Democratic Executive Committee chairman, is among those who are not exercising such discretion.

Yesterday Hughes predicted that Orville Bullington, Republican nominee for governor, would carry fewer than 15 counties over Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, Democratic nominee.

"In East Texas Mrs. Ferguson will carry every county from the Red River to the Gulf," predicts Hughes. Somewhere between the Red River and the Gulf there is one county, commonly known as Harrison, which gave Sterling decisive victories in the primaries within the confines of the county. Unless these voters have decided to spurn the Sterling brand of statesmanship, the candidate endorsed by the incumbent should have a fairly good chance of polling a few votes hereabouts. Of course, we're not ready to cite definite figures; Hughes seems to be so good at that.

Added to his reliance on pad and pencil, the executive committee chairman exhibits an abiding faith in party organization. Speaking of the prospective victory in East Texas, Hughes says "including Smith, and Tyler, its county seat, which is the only place in the section where there is any organization behind Bullington."

The influence is that the Democratic nominee, backed by an organization, will carry that county, together with other East Texas counties. Pre-election indications are that party fealty may suffer some hard blows from such considerations as honesty in government and administration with responsibility.

A RETIRED army engineer who worked seven years to speed construction of the Panama Canal has resigned as chairman of the Colorado River advisory board of engineers, a group of government experts in charge of the construction of Hoover Dam. Explanation of his resignation was that a recent act of Congress deprived him of his salary.

The economy bill provided that any army officer whose retirement pay was more than $3,000 annually could not receive the $50 a day the government usually pays consulting engineers. The chairman of the advisory board of engineers falls under that classification. The other board members are civilians, unaffected by the economy bill.

It seems unfortunate that an employee with the ability which this particular man has shown should be deprived of compensation through a general economy measure. If civilian engineers are given $50 per day, it is not unfair for the retired army engineer to ask for the same compensation.

At the same time his resignation recalls another national emergency, the World War, when many industrial leaders and technical experts served their government on salaries of $1,000 per year. The present situation is not unlike that emergency. Summary measures are necessary; if the experts "get mad and quit" they set a bad example for lesser lights, many of whom do not have so much as "retirement pay."

THE Republican administration, which set out to put "two cars in every garage," has succeeded in putting two ships in the port of Montreal for each one that docked there before. And that at the expense of New York and the remainder of the United States.

Under the recent reciprocating trade agreement reached at Ottawa, the Britons ruled yesterday that Canadian grain shipped through the United States to Britain would not be accorded the preference granted at the recent conference. So wheat will move through Montreal; New York will lose a large tonnage of traffic.

The Ottawa agreement was one phase of the retaliatory measures adopted by other countries after this nation had adopted the so-called protective tariffs. Another incidental is that steel movements from the United States to Canada have practically been halted.

Canada and the United States are rapidly developing into distant neighbors—so distant that trade flows more freely between Canada and the units of the British Empire than between Canada and the United States. Thousands of miles of water barrier are more easily negotiated than a mere geographical boundary on dry land.

Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, notorious bandit, went back to his home town, Sallisaw, Okla., yesterday to rob a bank. "Another local boy makes good."

COTTON NOTES
New York, Nov. 2. (UP).—Cotton traders are marking time for two important events on Nov. 9—result of the presidential election and the November crop estimate by the government.
Larger private crop forecasts suggest another moderate upward revision in the government's November estimate, which will compare with 11,425,000 bales last month.
The Lancashire strike has had little effect on Liverpool so far, but a reduction in cotton consumption abroad is looked for if it persists.
A continued firm spot basis is reflected in reports from the south.

How Democrats May Vote For ORVILLE BULLINGTON FOR GOVERNOR

Assuming you want to vote for ROOSEVELT and GARNER and all the rest of the Democratic nominees, except Mrs. Miriam Ferguson, the only name you mark out in the Democratic column is Mrs. Miriam Ferguson, as shown below. In the Republican column you mark out everything from top to bottom, except Orville Bullington. In the next column, the Socialist, you draw a line from top to bottom, and the same for the other five columns. If two gubernatorial candidates' names appeared unmarked, neither would get a vote and your ballot would not be counted. You must leave all the 23 electors unmarked in the party you want and mark out all of them in the other columns in order to cast a vote for your presidential choice. Below is the important corner of the official ballot correctly marked if you want ROOSEVELT, GARNER and BULLINGTON and the rest of the Democratic nominees.

26 HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL TILTS CARDED FRIDAY

Attention Centers On Ten Games in Championship Race

Dallas, Texas, Nov. 2. (UP).—Major attention in Texas interscholastic League football activities this week, with 26 conference games scheduled, will be focused on ten major events, bearing on the championship in eight of the sixteen districts.

Two Fort Worth schools, Polytechnic and Masonic Home, engage in what probably will be one of the keenest contests in the entire conference. Masonic Home, with three victories and no defeats, is tied with Polytechnic, also undefeated, and Fort Worth Central, idle this week, for the lead in District 7.

An equally hard fought duel is expected between Sherman and Denton in District 6. Neither team has lost a conference tilt and each owns two victories. Denton last week trounced McKinney, 20 to 0, and has the advantage of playing on home terrain.

Sweetwater, tied with San Angelo and Colorado in District 3, meets McCamey, cellar occupant. San Angelo, also undefeated, but with one less victory than Sweetwater, faces Big Spring. San Angelo humbled Midland 61-to-0 last week. Colorado plays Stanton in a non-conference tilt.

Brackenridge and Thomas Jefferson of San Antonio, each undefeated and holding four victories, meet Alamo Heights, San Antonio, and Kerrville, respectively, in District 12.

With Amarillo, co-leaders in District 1, idle, the game between Lubbock, tied for first place, and Plainview will go far toward determining the winner in that circuit.

In Dallas, the Oak Cliff team will attempt to retain its clean slate against Woodrow Wilson, also of Dallas.

Austin High, El Paso, leader in District 4, plays Bowie, and John Reagan (Houston) leader in District 13, meets Jeff Davis (Houston).

Brackenridge, pace-setter in District 2, engages Olney in a non-conference game, while neither of the powerful leaders, Vernon and Quannah, engage in games in District 5, Vernon meeting Eastland in a non-title game and Quannah remaining idle. None of the leaders in other conferences are booked for conference games.

Pampa's strong team in District 1, defeated by Amarillo last week by a single touchdown, journeys to Oklahoma City for a major inter-sectional contest of the week.

Other important tilts include: Brownwood at Waco, Electra at Frederick, Okla. Childress at Wichita Falls, North Side (Fort Worth) at Mineral Wells.

Weatherford at Stripling (Fort Worth), North Dallas vs. Forest Avenue (Dallas).

Mt. Pleasant at Texarkana, Paris at Clarksville.

Marshall at Corsicana, Naacodoches at Longview.

MAVERICKS DRIVING HARD FOR GAME WITH CORSICANA TIGERS

Shifting from conference play to an intersectional tilt which promises to be anything but a breather, the Marshall High School Mavericks leave District 9 this weekend, journey to Corsicana, and engage the undefeated, but tied, Tigers under the arch Friday night.

The game will be the first meeting of two clubs, always pennant contenders in their own district.

Realizing their foe is formidable, in that the Tigers have amassed 172 points to their opponents' 13 in five frays, the Mavericks have been priming on so-called power plays, lacking when needed in previous games, and coordination between linemen and backs.

Returning from their 6 to 6 tie with Sulphur Springs in excellent condition, the Mavs have wasted no time in launching workouts for the Corsicana game. With Coaches J.

E. Willis and J. B. Head pointing out errors, the locals went through regular drill work last Saturday, something uncommon. They continued it Monday, and Tuesday were in the thick of plays and formations.

With Bernard West back in uniform for his share of the ball-toting and Phillip Faulkberry, tackle, wearing glasses but donning moleskins and looking on new life has been added to the work-outs.

The Tigers, smarting under their scoreless tie with Waco at Corsicana last week, started preparing for the invasion of the Mavericks. Tiger supporters herald the coming game as one of the most attractive on the Corsicana schedule.

For the tilt, both elevens should be on edge. The Mavericks are slated to begin again their slow but sure drives, while the Tigers are due to re-open their offensive which has been stopped only by Waco.

The starting lineup of Corsicana averages 175 pounds per man. The season's record: Corsicana 20; Highland Park at Dallas 0.

Corsicana 46; Tyler 0.

Corsicana 67; Hillsboro 0 (Conference).

Corsicana 39; John Reagan 13.

Corsicana 0; Waco 0.

Total 172; Opponents 13.

John Reagan of Houston brought the strongest offense seen on Tiger field this season while the airtight defense of the Waco Bengals nullified the best efforts of the contingent and never allowed the Tigers to get within the 20-yard zone.

The probable starting lineup for Corsicana Friday night will be Rector and Cole, ends; Hughes and Humphries or Price, tackles; Bell and McGee or Norris, guards; Kestinger, center; Murphy or McMullan, quarter; Bowlin and Green or Simpson, halves; Finley or Phillips, fullback.

FARMER FINDS HIGH FINANCES IN SMALL LOAN

Chicago, Nov. 2. (UP).—Henry Boerema, farmer who got tangled up in high finance, came to court Tuesday for relief.

He borrowed $250 from a loan company last year to buy a truck. He paid $265 in interest and service charges, he still owes $200 and the loan company wants to take his truck away from him. He asked Superior Judge Denis Sullivan for an injunction.

Following The BIG DOGS of the Sport World

By "THE LITTLE DOGS"

The members of the Tiger and Maverick elevens are too honest! Believe it or not, but the boys just won't put any deception into their offensive tactics. Fakes are simply not in their makeups. We know because we've been watching them practice.

It was right amusing Tuesday afternoon to see some of the Maverick backs trying to be deceptive. Elusive, yes. Deceptive, No. It is little short of comical to see some back stagger around in what was supposed to be a spin, shove the ball out toward another player like soup at a free bread line, and then try to amble through the opposing line where eleven men individually and collectively are waiting for him. The performance reminds one somewhat of a gumdrop chased by flies.

Now the art of faking a play is nothing to master. The only thing we can see wrong is that the boys just won't be dishonest enough to fool their opponents. They insist on telling the truth at all times, even in their plays.

But after all, the truth is only that which a person, for some reason or other, chooses to believe. Now if the backs would just get the idea that in causing an opposing team to believe the ball was going around right end, whereas it really goes around the other end, no harm will be done; the back's moral integrity will be unmarred and the coach would be pleased withal.

By the way, in the realm of winter sports we should give mention here to that grand and noble game of Bally Ball. Now there is a game for you. It consists of rolling little marbles around, hoping on each one that it will fall into the hole bearing the biggest number. You don't have to have any athletic ability to play it—all you need is nickels and pennies. One can get all the thrills of a football game playing it. There is always a large rooting section on hand and lots of good quarterbacks to tell you how to roll your own What a game!

We ought to call the attention of local fans to the fact that the Mavericks are to tackle Corsicana there Friday night. Now that will be a game if we know anything about it. The Bengals are touted as possible state champions this year. That makes it all the better. Pine Bluff was just as good in our opinion. We took a licking from the Zebras all right, but the Mavericks now aren't the same club they were then. And, too, the Mavericks played the Zebras off their feet in the first half.

Corsicana averages 175 pounds to the man. Pine Bluff beat that. The Mavericks are used to big teams now and would just as soon have 'em come big as little. The Bengals beat Tyler 46-0. That's nothing; we should have done the same. The boys are due to be hitting on all eleven this week-end and if they do there may be big doings over at Corsicana.

MAN ARRESTED IN CAR THEFT

Mearl Hughes, about 30, was arrested and placed in the city jail last night charged with the theft of an automobile belonging to T. P. Hopkins, of Houston, reported stolen there several days ago. He was arrested by Patrolmen F. F. Pinson, and Deputy Sheriff Ellis Johnson, as he entered the city, coming from Longview.

Gregg County officers said he was wanted for questioning there on another charge.

CROSS-TIDES

After the death of his wife, Michael Moore, a talented but reckless artist, leaves his twin children, Adam and Eve, in the care of their grandmother and goes abroad. Finally there comes the word of his remarriage. Years pass and Adam and Eve have become a young man and a beautiful girl. Adam is injured in an automobile accident and it is feared that he will be a cripple for life. Eve secures a position in a brokerage house. Her employer, Martin White, is worried because he fears that Peter Hammill will sue him over a business deal. Eve gets him that she can meet Hammill and persuade him to drop the matter. She telephones Hammill.

CHAPTER IX.

Peter Hammill stood on the threshold of the ante-room. Eve gave him a quick look beneath her lids and kept right on working. Ignoring people for a few seconds, she discovered, was an excellent way of calling attention to yourself and that's what she intended to do in this instance. After a few seconds she looked up and with her sweetest smile, said:

"Oh, I'm so sorry, Mr. Hammill. I didn't hear you come in. Won't you sit down for a moment? Mr. White is busy but I'm sure he'll be through soon."

"I had an appointment at eleven," Eve looked at her wrist watch pointedly. "And Mr. White is a very busy man, you know. He has conferences every fifteen minutes, but I imagine he will be able to tuck you in somewhere, since you're here."

"I'm just as busy as he is," Peter folded himself into a chair. Five minutes went by. Eve cast covert glances at him as he sat there. Why hadn't Mr. White told her he was so young looking? He wasn't really handsome, unless you could call a mop of unruly red hair and rather keen gray-blue eyes being handsome. Eve noticed that he was fidgeting. He coughed nervously, then stood up and came over to Eve's desk.

"I say, you haven't told Mr. White I'm here yet. Would you mind letting him know? I can't imagine why he sent for me anyway. By the way, YOU don't happen to know what it was he wanted to see me about, do you?"

"Why, no, I haven't the faintest idea," she tried to make her face rapidly blank. "But you were the one who called me yesterday, weren't you? You ARE Miss Moore, aren't you?"

"Yes, I called you." So he remembered her name. A good sign. Just then the door into Martin White's private office opened, and he came out, catching sight of Peter Hammill.

"Oh, Mr. Hammill, here you are. Miss Moore, why didn't you tell me Mr. Hammill was here? I've been waiting for him for half an hour."

With a withering look at her, Peter Hammill strode into the private office. Eve smiled again as the door closed after them. Mr. White hadn't been busy, of course. That had been just a stall. She needed a chance to look him over and size him up and figure out if she could, what sort of a person this Peter Hammill might happen to be. Eve shrugged her shoulders and went on working.

Behind the closed door of the private office she heard the conversation, at first quiet, grow into intensity. Martin White's voice thundered; then another, equally strident but obviously more than a little irritated. Evidently things were going very badly. In a few seconds the door was flung open, and shouting words loudly back over his shoulder.

"I still don't see why in the devil you got me all the way down here just to tell me that. I swear, White, I'm taking the whole business to the district attorney. He'll take action!"

He banged through the ante-room, out toward the elevator. Eve's quick eye saw Peter Hammill's stick resting against the chair in which he had been sitting. In a flash she picked it up and ran quickly through the corridor. Perhaps he hadn't left. No. There he was, stamping up and down ringing the elevator bell impatiently. For a moment she stood in the doorway watching him. He surely was in a beast of a temper! Then she approached him quickly.

"Mr. Hammill—" "Yes?" He turned around, scowling, and then his eyes caught the stick she was holding. "Oh, thank you so much. I left it inside. If it hadn't been for you I should have lost it."

"It isn't the only thing you lost inside, either," Eve looked at him quizzically with an imp of devilry shining from her eyes. "I really don't know whether you should be trusted with this or not. You look terribly as if you would like to hit someone over the head, and this stick would make an awfully good weapon."

Peter Hammill grinned sheepishly. "Thanks so much. Nice of you to follow me out and give it to me. That old fellow inside there irritates me more every time I see him."

"It's rather lucky, then, you left the stick in the ante-room, isn't it?" Eve smiled mischievously. "You mustn't let Mr. White bother you that way. He doesn't really mean half of what he says."

"Oh, so he doesn't, doesn't he? Well, I mean all of what I said. When you go back, tell him that."

"I certainly will. Always glad to deliver messages. And, by the way, Mr. Hammill—the indicator showed that the elevator would be stopping at their floor any second—if I find, when I get inside, that you lost anything more besides your temper and your stick, I'll phone you."

Insolent girl! Peter Hammill thought as the elevator dropped him to the ground floor. Nevertheless, Eve's twinkling eyes kept him from intercepting himself into his mind all the rest of that day.

He tried to remember what she looked like. He couldn't seem to conjure up any definite recollection. Was she blonde, or brunette? He didn't know why that should worry him so, but it did. Every now and then he would think of those twinkling eyes and remember her almost insolent voice, so self-assured, yet so softly insinuating with promise.

Back in her office, Martin White said to Eve: "How did you get on with him? Hope you accomplished more than I did."

"Oh, I don't know. We'll see." Eve wasn't terribly surprised when, very late that afternoon, her telephone rang and she heard Peter Hammill's voice:

"Miss Moore?"

"Why, yes, Mr. Hammill," and then witheringly, "don't tell me you want me to find it for you?"

"As a matter of fact—you didn't find a glove, did you?"

"No—but I didn't look for anything else. It seemed to me you lost plenty this morning."

"Well—I guess I did. Have a look around, will you? It's a rather big glove. If it fell on the floor, someone will probably trip and take a bad tumble. Will you?"

"Supposing—I'll tell you—I'll drop by in about half an hour and see if you found it. Say—about a quarter of five?"

"Oh, don't bother," Eve tried not to chuckle. "I'll send one of the messengers boys over with it."

"I wouldn't think of your doing that. I'll drop around myself."

"Well—just as you say. I'll have a look around."

Eve put down the receiver and burst into a gale of merry laughter just as Martin White strode through the room.

"You look awfully pleased with yourself," he said.

"Oh, I am. That was Peter Hammill on the phone. He thinks he left a glove in your office and he called to see if I had found it."

Martin White looked at her keenly. "It seems to me that's not very subtle." His eyes began to twinkle.

"That's exactly it," Eve laughed. "It isn't a bit subtle. I'm going to teach him a little lesson. Would you mind letting me off a bit early this afternoon?"

"Why, no. Run along right now."

"Fine," and Eve hurried, hoping that she would get out of the building and into the subway before Peter Hammill arrived.

DALLAS POSTOFFICE BANDIT PARDONED

Dallas, Texas, Nov. 2. (UP).—Ben Luna, one of 12 men convicted in federal court here 12 years ago and sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary for the Jackson Street postoffice robbery, has been unconditionally pardoned by President Hoover.

News of the president's action reached Luna today through Congressman Hutton Summers. The former has been under parole for three years after serving six and a half years in Leavenworth. He is now operating a chicken farm near Irving, Texas.

Unconditional pardons, rarely issued by the president, are looked upon as a virtual admission of unjust conviction, local authorities declare.

Federal Judge James Wilson, who sentenced him, and a host of political leaders and business men of prominence in Texas had recommended the pardon for Luna, regarding whose guilt there had long been widespread doubt here.
