Gear of the Year

When you stop to consider the overwhelming number of new firearm-related products to hit the shelves each year, it's kind of staggering. It's even more daunting, perhaps, to isolate which products stand out as the best among the rest, but that's exactly what our editorial staff and expert contributors set out to do for 2015. After testing and reviewing literally hundreds of different handguns, optics, ARs, bolt-action rifles, shotguns and a vast array of gun-related gear, we set out to pick the best gear of the year for 2015. We looked at several factors, but the leading measure was ultimately based on the overall performance of a particular item that led to one of those "wow moments." I was glassing for elk some 1,200 yards in the Colorado distance, for example, when I had my friend, fellow elk junky and former guide, Toby, peer through Swarovski's ATX spotting scope to get a second opinion. "Pretty amazing, right?" I asked. His response said it all: "That's the understatement of the century. I think this scope is going to ruin me."

It was a banner year for innovation. That meant breathtaking optical quality at prices to match, as with Swarovski's ATX, EL Range range-finding binos and new long-range X5 scope, which each break the bank at over $3,000. Mossberg's Patriot rifle earned a place on our list because of the company's ability to build a tack driver for under $500. In the ammo world, Hornady launched its new ELD-X bullet, which provides match-grade accuracy with the kind of expansion that makes every big game hunter's heart skip a beat. Hot on the tail of Nosler's 26 and 28, Weatherby introduced its new 6.5mm long-range workhorse, the 6.5-300, which is the new speed champion for 6.5 bullets. Custom-grade pistols from Turnbull, Republic Forge and Guncrafter

Industries prove that the venerable 1911 is anything but a thing of the past.

As always, we hope these pages help spark your enthusiasm for the shooting sports and give you one more reason to head to the range or field. Share your favorite gear picks by emailing the editors: GunDigestOnline@fwmedia.com.

Quick Shot: Nightforce Competition 15-55x52

Nightforce Optics has a well-earned and established reputation for producing some of the best optics in the business, and the Competition 15-55x52 is an excellent choice for the serious competitive shooter. This second focal plane riflescope offers fantastic resolving power, courtesy of its ED glass and is able to provide an incredible 92 percent light transmission across its magnification range.

The Competition 15-55x52 features twin Hi-Speed, ZeroStop turrets for elevation and windage that are large and textured for easy adjustment, even with gloved hands. Adjustments are in .125-MOA increments for precise refinement, and each click is easily distinguished. The scope offers a total elevation travel of 55 MOA and a total windage travel of 50 MOA, and it also has side parallax adjustment from 25 yards to infinity.

With an overall weight of 27.87 ounces, the Competition 15-55x52 is significantly lighter than Nightforce's previous 12-42x56 Benchrest and 12-42x56 NXS riflescopes, a nice benefit for shooters. Of course, this reduced weight doesn't translate into a less durable scope, as the Competition 15-55x52—like all of Nightforce's optics—remains tough and rugged.

The Competition 15-55x52 riflescope comes with sturdy lens caps and a sunshade. It is available for $2,352. GDTM

7mm JRS

The 7mm JRS was designed by Jon R. Sundra. It is based on the .280/7mm Express Remington case, but is more than an Improved .280 in that it cannot be made by fire-forming .280 Remington ammo in a 7mm JRS chamber. Attempting to do so is dangerous, because the 7mm JRS pushes a 35-degree shoulder more than .05-inch forward of where it would be on the .280 Improved. Therefore, headspace is increased commensurately. To give some idea of relative case capacities, the .280 Remington/7mm Express holds about 63 grains of water to the base of the neck; the .280 RCBS holds about 66 grains; the 7mm JRS about 70.5 grains (Norma cases). The 7mm Remington Magnum holds about 82 grains. Chamber reamers for the 7mm JRS are made by Clymer Mfg. (ClymerTool.com), while reloading dies are made by Hornady. Sundra found that very little load development work was necessary with this cartridge. Norma MRP and Reloader 22 are the best powders, with H4831, IMR 4831, and IMR 7828 coming in as close seconds. Other slow burners like IMR 4831 and H450 also do well. Depending on the individual rifle and case (Remington, Norma, or Winchester), maximum loads range between 60.5 to 63.5 grains of RL-22 with a 150-grain Nosler. Velocity has ranged from 3060 to 3120 fps in various barrels of 23½ to 24 inches. GDTM

FEATURED PRODUCT

Lead Sight by Wing Shooter

The Wing Shooter is the revolutionary shooting aid that will change the way you use that scattergun forever.

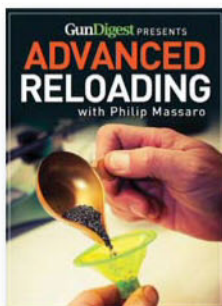

"You must lead your target" is something you've probably heard many times before. That's where the Wing Shooter comes in.

This non-permanent device attaches to your barrel and provides not one but four extra "beads" that swing out on hinges. Line one of these four beads up with your moving target. Bingo! You're automatically "leading the target."

Semi-Auto Pistols

Firearms manufacturers are producing pistols that are more advanced, functional, comfortable and stylish than ever before. After extensive use and testing, here are several we feel are the best of 2015.

DICK JONES

We're living in a period of historically unprecedented improvements in firearms development, and pistols have been a prime area of that development. New manufacturing techniques, materials and finishes have allowed gun makers to bring out new designs and improvements at a much faster rate than in the past. Today, it's almost difficult to choose a bad handgun, but very hard to keep the best that's available in your holster.

As current gun buyers become more discriminating, traditional designs like the venerable 1911 improve in fit and finish, with many makers mass producing guns that just a few years ago would have required months of waiting for a custom build and a serious cash outlay. Modern designs see improvements in magazine capacity, fire controls and sighting systems, as technological development increasingly becomes an integral part of the firearms industry.

1 TURNBULL HERITAGE COMMANDER

Since the development of the Commander-sized 1911 in 1949, the shorter and more compact version has been a popular gun for daily carry and utility. For years, Turnbull Restoration and Manufacturing Company has been restoring almost any class of firearm imaginable and has developed the reputation for uncompromising quality. Now, they're using their expertise to produce some of the most beautiful and functional 1911s to be found. Available in custom configurations, the Turnbull 1911s are available in .45 ACP with Novak 3 dot sights, a beavertail grip safety and carbon steel frame and slide. Pricing is available on request.

(Price varies; TurnbullMfg.com)

2 GLOCK 40 GEN4 MOS

Probably one of the most influential handgun designs of the 20th century has been the Glock Safety Action system. While the Glock wasn't the first striker-fired polymer-framed pistol, it was certainly the first commercially successful one. The design is now in its fourth generation, and the addition of the MOS system makes the addition of a modern reflex sight a simple operation. Using pin-located adapter plates, the MOS system allows easy installation and an increased level of accuracy in challenging light conditions with reflex sights. The 6-inch barrel length and powerful and flat-shooting 10mm round make it a wonderful semi-auto pistol for hunting. In the past, revolvers have dominated handgun hunting, but the Glock 40 promises to make a change to the status quo. ($840; US.Glock.com)

3 SMITH & WESSON M&P C.O.R.E.

Smith and Wesson's M&P series striker-fired service pistols have achieved a strong following with law enforcement, competitive shooters and the defensive civilian market. They're known for their flat-shooting characteristics as well as for excellent accuracy and reliability. A recent development is the Competition Optics Ready Edition (or C.O.R.E.) line in the Pro Series of guns for competition. The C.O.R.E. guns come with extra-high, three-dot iron sights to allow co-witness with popular reflex sights. The top of the slide has a flat surface drilled for location pins to allow fitting of adapter plates for the Trijicon RMR, Leupold Delta Point, Jpoint, Docter, C-MORE STS and Insight MRDS reflex sight systems. The M&P Pro Series C.O.R.E. is available in 9mm and .40 S&W. ($789; Smith-Wesson.com)

4 BERETTA M9A3

When the U.S. Armed Forces adopted the Beretta M9 in 1985, there were dire predictions of problems just as has been the case with almost every new weapons system our military ever adopted. The simple fact is that the M9 has served well and has earned the respect of almost all its early detractors. The new M9A3 is a revised and improved version of that proven design. The new Vertec frame gives the M9A3 a thinner and less girthy feel. Magazine capacity has been upped to 17 + 1 from 15 + 1. The barrel is threaded for a suppressor, and there's a front rail for lights or lasers. Faster reloading is facilitated with a beveled magazine well and a larger magazine release. ($890.00; Beretta.com)

5 KIMBER STAINLESS II CLASSIC

Kimber is the leading manufacturer of 1911 pistols, and for many years, they've set the standard for other makers. The Stainless II Classic is the same gun internally but with a focus on aesthetics that sets it above other 1911s in the line. The frame is engraved forward of the slide release, around the magazine release, on the flat mainspring housing, and on the right side opposite the safety. The slide has both front and rear serrations, and the flat sides and top are scroll engraved in an open vine scroll pattern. While the engraving isn't hand cut, it has a more similar appearance than most mass-produced engraving. It sparkles in the light, contrasting the flat finish of the frame and slide, creating a remarkably attractive look. There's a beavertail grip safety, and sights are fixed and low profile. The skeletonized trigger on my test gun broke crisp and clean at 4.0 pounds and is backlash adjustable. The two-toned, smooth walnut grips with Ivory Micarta checkered inlays are one of the most striking features on the Stainless II Classic. ($1,905.00; KimberAmerica.com)

6 SPRINGFIELD 1911 OPERATOR

Springfield Armory has been producing 1911s for a long time, and they've found favor in the market by providing accurate, reliable handguns at a reasonable price. The Operator is a no-nonsense 1911 with useful features that come together for a gun that's totally focused on functionality. It uses a standard 1911 steel frame with the addition of a lower rail for mounting lights and lasers. The additional beefiness of the frame brings the weight up to 42 ounces, making it a few ounces heavier. There's an ambidextrous safety and a generous beavertail grip safety with a good-sized base bump for shooters with thin hands. The Operator has fixed combat Tritium, three-dot sights. There's a three-hole target trigger and skeletonized hammer, and the finish is OD green on the frame and black on the slide. For comfort, Pachmayr rubber grips provide a firm purchase. ($929.00; Springfield-Armory.com)

7 HK VP9

H&K released the first striker-fired, polymer pistol long before the current generation, but it was before its time and wasn't a commercial success. Now, they're in the striker-fired game again with the VP9, a polymer-framed 9mm with excellent ergonomics and performance. The bore axis is very low, which keeps it flat during recoil. One of the features I really liked was the addition of "charging supports," extra gripping surfaces that appear to be mortised into the rear of the frame behind the normal gripping surfaces. This makes it a very easy pistol to operate, a valuable feature and a big issue with smaller-framed shooters. The VP9 has a magazine capacity of 15 rounds and uses the familiar three-dot sight system with a drift adjustable rear. It comes with two magazines in a hard case. ($719.00; HK-USA.com)

8 REPUBLIC FORGE PATRIOT 1911

The growing interest in one-off custom pistols has burgeoned because of the influx of new firearms enthusiasts with enough disposable income to desire something a bit different from what's offered at the local gun shop. As a result, custom guns are becoming more commonplace, and building a superior 1911 with totally American heritage is the dream and mantra of Republic Forge in Perryton, Texas. Their program allows the buyer to select multiple options and design his own personal gun that's going to be totally unique. Options include sights, frame configuration, grips, finish, calibers and more. There are literally hundreds of possible combinations in addition to custom modifications not on the list. The base Patriot model has Novak sights, a skeletonized hammer and trigger, a beavertail grip safety and is a Commander configuration.

LONG GUNS

From ultra-modern over/under shotguns to supremely accurate precision rifles, this year gave rise to a host of innovative and drool-worthy new firearms.

BRAD FITZPATRICK

Regardless of whether you're an upland bird hunter, a budget-minded big game enthusiast or a dedicated long-range shooter, there are a lot of new products to be excited about in 2015. Long-range shooting remains a popular pastime, and there have been some very serious shooting machines rolled out in 2015 dedicated to that discipline. It's never been easier to slap steel targets at four-figure yardages than it is today, and the latest long-range rifles are comparable to custom guns from years past. There's also been renewed interest in a classic rifle design this year, too—the Colonel Jeff Cooper-inspired Scout rifle, which features a forward-mounted scope and a short, handy profile. Savage broke new ground with the development of a functional, affordable semi-auto in .17 HMR, and the team at Benelli expanded their lineup with the brand's first over/under. If you have any questions regarding the health of the firearms industry, simply take a look at the diversity of new products that broke cover during the last 12 months.

Needless to say, choosing 10 long guns that were viewed as the “best of the best” was tough, and there were some standout products that didn't make it onto this year's list. But when all of the votes from writers and editors were calculated, these new products landed on top. They have proven to be the very best of the new class of firearms, the Gear of the Year winners for 2015.

For years engineers have wrestled with creating an affordable, reliable semi-auto .17 HMR rifle due to the cartridge's high pressure upon ignition, which was too much for traditional rimfire blowback systems to handle. Savage addressed this problem with a new delayed-blowback rimfire system featuring an interrupter lug that holds the action closed until pressures drop before allowing the bolt to release. This system is central to the new A17 rifle, the first successful semi-auto .17 HMR design. Other key features include a 10-round rotary magazine, crossbolt safety that blocks both the trigger and the hammer, a button-rifled barrel, hard chrome bolt and Savage's AccuTrigger. The new A17 weighs just 5.41 pounds and measures 42 inches long. ($465; SavageArms.com)

2 MOSSBERG PATRIOT

Mossberg's biggest news in 2015 was its newly designed Patriot bolt-action rifle, available in no less than 60 configurations and 11 different calibers including the powerful .375 Ruger. There are five stock options, various barrel lengths and contours, stainless or blued finishes, models with iron sights and pre-mounted and bore-sighted scopes. In addition to new hunting models (standard and youth sizes), there is also a Night Train line of Patriot rifles for serious long-range work. All Patriots have drop box magazines, spiral-fluted push-feed bolts with dual locking lugs and the LBA bladed trigger system, which offers a light, clean, break and user-adjustable pull weight. And, like their shotgun lineup, these rifles are durable and affordable. ($386; Mossberg.com)

3 H-S PRECISION PLR

H-S Precision's complete rifle packages take accuracy and reliability to the extreme. The company promises half-inch accuracy at 100 yards from .30-caliber and smaller rifles. Rifles are highly customizable: dozens of stock colors, barrels lengths and contours, right or left-handed actions, finishes and calibers. The SPL hunting rifle is the most popular, while the PHL is the ultimate lightweight hunting rifle, weighing between 5.7 and 5.9 pounds. There are also dangerous game, varmint and long-range options. Regardless of your choice, you'll get a gun made with the finest parts available that's capable of head-turning accuracy. Even with relatively high starting prices, H-S Precision rifles are a bargain considering the build quality and accuracy potential. ($3,495-; HSPrecision.com)

4 RUGER PRECISION RIFLE

Ruger has its own long-range-ready rifle, and it's a winner. The RPR's enclosed receiver has a minimized ejection port to improve rigidity and an oversized three-lug, one-piece bolt for a short 70-degree lift with dual cocking cams for a sleek, smooth bolt stroke. The oversized bolt handle is removable; the stock is fully adjustable, and the innovative in-line recoil system manages recoil back from the receiver through the stock instead of the bedding system, further enhancing accuracy. The rifle's upper and bolt are pre-hardened 4140 chrome-moly steel, and the Marksman bladed trigger is adjustable from 2.25 to 5 pounds. The rifle has a free-floated medium-contour, cold hammer forged 4140 barrel with 5R rifling and comes standard with a KeyMod handguard. A 20-MOA Picatinny rail offers maximum elevation adjustment for serious long-range shooting. Ruger didn't just dress up an existing rifle with a few accoutrements and brand it a long-range rifle; instead, it started fresh and delivered a bolt gun capable of outstanding accuracy at a reasonable price. Available in .308 Winchester, 6.5 Creedmoor and .243 Winchester, the RPR easily earns a place among our favorite rifles for 2015. ($1,400; Ruger.com)

5 WINCHESTER XPR

Bolt guns have undergone a dramatic transformation since Winchester's venerable Model 70. The company's new XPR incorporates many of those changes and offers extreme accuracy at an affordable price, placing it among our top rifle choices for 2015. The XPR has a newly designed push-feed bolt design with three locking lugs up front for a 60-degree bolt lift. The bolt is also oversized, so it doesn't rattle in the receiver and provides a smooth stroke. A special nickel Teflon coating on the bolt reduces friction, and the receiver is machined from heat-treated chromoly bar stock. The XPR drops the traditional three-position wing safety for a sliding two-position model with a separate bolt release button. The XPR has a box magazine and Winchester's excellent MOA trigger system, which offers a light, clean break with zero creep, take-up and overtravel. It's available with a black or camo synthetic stock, and a combo model comes with a pre-mounted and bore-sighted Vortex scope. Caliber options range from .270 Winchester to .338 Winchester, so no matter what type of game you're after, the affordable, reliable, accurate XPR is a great choice. ($549; WinchesterGuns.com)

6 TIKKA T3 CTR

Tikka rifles are known for their reliability, accuracy and affordability, and the new CTR (Compact Tactical Rifle) is the latest iteration of these popular turnbolts. It features the same rigid, enclosed, one-piece receiver you'll find on other Tikka rifles, and the three-lug, oversized, Teflon-coated bolt rides smoothly in the receiver and offers a short bolt lift for rapid follow-ups. There's a long Picatinny rail atop the receiver for mounting optics, and the heavy-contour barrel aids in long-range shooting. Ten round steel detachable magazines make reloading fast, and the adjustable cheek piece allows you to fit the rifle to your face profile. The 20-inch barrel is threaded for the easy addition of a flash hider or suppressor, and like other Tikka rifles, this gun has a crisp, smooth trigger and superb accuracy potential. It's available in either .260 Remington or .308 Winchester, both excellent dual-purpose target and hunting cartridges, and you can opt for a blued or stainless version. Whether you're looking for a compact target rifle or an accurate hunting rifle—or both, the Tikka is hard to beat. And you're getting a lot of rifle for the money. ($1,000; Tikka.fi)

7 RUGER GUNSITE SCOUT

Following the rifle design of Colonel Cooper and named after his famed shooting school in Arizona, the Ruger Gunsite Scout rifle has the same Mauser-type controlled round feed action you'll find on Ruger's Hawkeye rifles. In true Scout rifle form, the Ruger has a forward-mounted Picatinny scope rail, and a receiver-mounted aperture has replaced the rear sight. The Ruger also has integrated bases machined into the receiver, and rings are included, so there are several sighting options. Stocks are made from durable gray laminate or black synthetic, and there's a stock spacer for adjusting length of pull up to 1.5 inches. The muzzle is threaded and comes with a flash suppressor or muzzle brake, and there's a choice between blued or stainless finishes. The Gunsite Scout is less than 40 inches long, weighs just over 7 pounds and has a 10-round detachable box magazine, making it maneuverable and quick-pointing—ideal for the defensive rifle Colonel Cooper envisioned but equally valuable in a hunting rifle, particularly when shots are close and fast. And since it's available in both 5.56 NATO/.223 Remington and .308 Winchester, the Scout is a very versatile hunting rifle indeed. ($1,075; Ruger.com)

8 BENELLI 828U

The 828U, Benelli's first over/under, broke cover at last year's SHOT Show. Rather than a restyled version of the standard stackbarrel, the 828U was a brand new take on an old shotgun design. Instead of the all-steel receivers you'll find on traditional over/unders, the 828U has a patented steel locking system and plate with an aluminum receiver, and in place of standard ejectors, the Benelli's are impulse activated for reliable functioning and less parts to break or wear. The ergonomic top lever is parallel to the barrels and is easy to use, even with gloved hands. The safety is tang-mounted and has an integrated barrel selector. Crio barrels provide consistent, even patterns, and there are 5 drop and 4 cast shims included for adjustment, a first of its kind in stackbarrel shotguns. The stocks are made from well-figured AA walnut with distinctive and functional fish scale checkering. The cheekpiece insert is height adjustable, and the 828U has Benelli's Progressive Comfort system to reduce recoil. Smooth and well balanced, the 828U is a revolutionary over/under worth of the Benelli name. The 828U is available with either an engraved nickel or anodized receiver, and it's currently available in 12-gauge. ($2,499; BenelliUSA.com)

9 BENELLI ETHOS 20 GAUGE

Last year, Benelli launched its new Ethos 12-gauge semi-auto shotgun, the latest in its long and successful line of Inertia-Driven firearms. The 12-gauge Ethos addressed two complaints levied against inertia guns: that the bolt must be slammed shut to rotate and lock in place for firing and that recoil was more pronounced and unpleasant than with gas guns. To remedy the first, Benelli added a detent that virtually eliminates the fail-to-lock problem. To address recoil, Benelli added its Progressive Comfort system, a system of baffles that mitigate recoil. In 2015, Benelli introduced the 20-gauge Ethos, weighing just over 5.5 pounds and available with a classy nickel-plated engraved receiver and AA grade walnut. The 20-gauge Ethos is light for all-day carry and superbly balanced for fast shooting. I hauled it through miles of Wyoming's high plains for sage grouse and appreciated the reduced weight. The Ethos 20 may be the ultimate upland semi-auto, and with its Progressive Comfort system, it is comfortable enough for skeet and sporting clays. It's certainly one of the finest new shotguns of 2015. ($2,199; BenelliUSA.com)

10 REMINGTON V3

Remington's Versa Max shotgun has been very successful, and for 2015 the company launched its new American-made V3, a 3-inch gas gun that perfectly compliments the larger Versa Max. And, like the Versa Max, the V3 utilizes a Versaport system where gases escape through vents in the forearm and operate the pistons for reliable cycling with a variety of loads, from light target shells to heavy 3-inch goose and turkey loads. One complaint levied against gas guns were that they were heavy, but the V3 weighs in at just 7 pounds, a happy medium that remains portable and easy-to-carry yet helps mitigate the impact of recoil. The new V3 Sport is available in basic black, dipped in Mossy Oak Blades camo or a more traditional walnut and steel look, but all three versions perform equally well. The V3 is also a very well balanced shotgun that swings smoothly and points naturally, perfect for just about any field situation you might encounter. The oversized trigger guard and large, easy-to-locate crossbolt safety are nice touches and make it easy to operate the gun with gloved hands. ($750; Remington.com) GDTM

BE A GUNSMITH!

Get your FREE introductory video gunsmithing lesson and complete information package today!

Study at home and TURN YOUR PASSION INTO PROFIT!

Quickly learn the step-by-step secrets of how to make money gunsmithing part-time, full-time, or as a retirement income.

Currently there is a HUGE Demand for Gunsmiths.

Millions of guns need fixing. Most of the old-time gunsmiths have retired and haven't been replaced because previously there wasn't a cost effective way to quickly train individuals to become gunsmiths and help them make money fast. This has created a chronic shortage and a huge opportunity for you.

Gunsmithing is a recession-proof business. Even in tough times people spend money to get their guns repaired or professionally cleaned. It's a lot cheaper than buying a new one and they still want and need them for hunting and self defense. You can even work part-time right from your home. Your one time investment in the course could provide you with a lifetime of income and opportunity.

Here's what you will learn in your FREE VIDEO!

How AGI's Professional Gunsmithing Course changed Robert Briskey's life: "Within one short year I opened up my own firearms repair and custom refinishing shop. My business is exceeding my dreams. The freedom I enjoy being self-employed is priceless. Without the opportunity that AGI's course offered, my dream would be just that, a dream." Robert T. Briskey, Battle Hen Armory

You don't have to wait to start gunsmithing! It only takes a relatively small investment to get started. As soon as you begin watching the videos you will be able to start making repairs. Anytime you run into a problem, you just pop in the DVD on the subject or model gun that you need information on and do a quick review.

Couldn't get a better recommendation: "I made the mistake of taking another cheaper gunsmithing course. I knew I made a mistake when I read in one of my lesson books that for further instructional help, go to the AGI website and get a DVD on the subject. When other schools are giving YOU that kind of acknowledgement, then you have to be the best." Gordon Fisher

In this FREE introductory video gunsmithing lesson featuring renowned Master Gunsmith Robert "Bob" Dunlap you WILL learn:

- How to ensure reliable auto-pistol feeding and prevent jams
- Understanding and timing of Remington 870 cartridge stops
- Checking and adjusting "range" on Smith & Wesson revolvers
- Troubleshooting ejection problems on Browning A-5 shotguns
- How a gas system works on a Colt AR-15
- AR-7 trigger repairs
- Secrets of fast and easy gun repair!
- Exclusive teaching method demonstrated in proven video format that makes learning a snap and much more...

GEAR ^{OF} THE YEAR

Our team of expert writers and editors rounded up what some of the best new gear and accessories released in 2015.

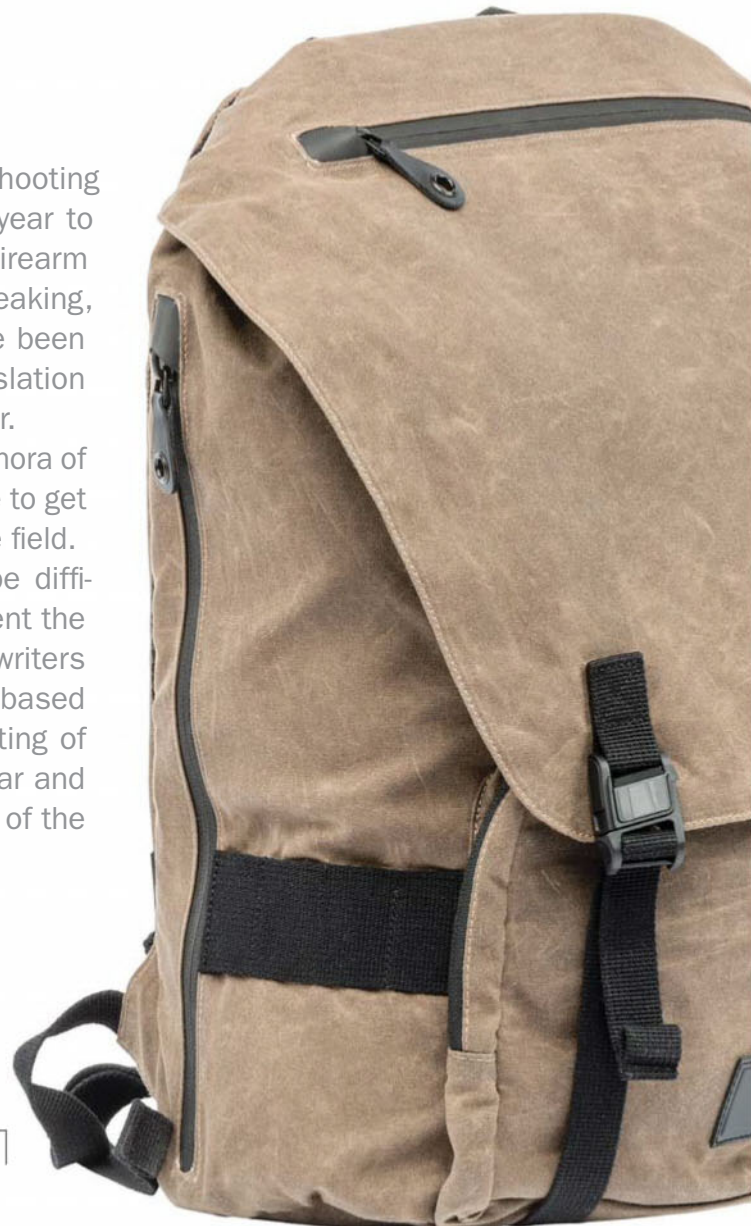

EDITORIAL STAFF

Regardless of what type of shooting you prefer, it's been a good year to build your gear collection. Firearm and ammo prices have, generally speaking, fallen off a bit, and many states have been introducing and implementing legislation that advances rights for the gun owner.

Of course, 2015 has also seen a plethora of new product introductions that are sure to get shooters excited to hit the range or the field.

With all the new releases, it can be difficult to choose which products represent the best in class, but our group of expert writers and editors has come up with a list based on our personal experiences and testing of products during the past year. The gear and accessories featured below are some of the very best from 2015.

DIVERSION WAX CANVAS RUCKSACK

Blackhawk's Diversion bags are designed to help shooters discreetly transport firearms to and from the range, and the Wax Canvas Rucksack is an excellent choice for those who live in highly urban areas or who simply don't want to call attention to their firearms. Constructed from 10.10-ounce Army Duck Martexin original wax canvas, the Rucksack features a stylish and inconspicuous design. It has a multitude of pockets and storage areas, including hidden, easy-access compartments for a handgun and a laptop. For added comfort, the Rucksack incorporates a padded back with 3D mesh and a removable back stiffener as well as padded, adjustable shoulder straps. Fidlock Buckles, which are magnetic and open in a non-traditional fashion, provide added security against unfamiliar hands. It is available in Earth and Slate color options.

($250; Blackhawk.com)

2 REDDING

PREMIUM DIE SETS

Introduced in early 2015, the Redding Premium Die Sets offer incredible value for reloaders. There are two different kits available: The two-die set comes with a full length sizing die and a seating die with micrometer seat stem, and the three-die set features those same two dies as well as a neck sizing die. Both sets also include a free-floating carbide expander button, which relieves stress on the case neck and improves overall concentricity. Meanwhile, the micrometer adjusting seat stem permits the handloader to precisely seat the bullet. Overall, there's a ton of utility for the reloader in either one of these great die sets. ($144-$186; Redding-Reloading.com)

3 WILEYX

TIDE SUNGLASSES

WileyX makes a ton of great sunglasses, and its new Tide sunglasses represent a great option for shooters. These sunglasses provide certified impact protection to the ANSI Z87.1 impact standard, while offering shooters a stylish option on bright, sunny days. The glasses feature multi-layer foam and seamless hinges for increased protection and durability. WileyX's patented removable facial cavity seal technology is also incorporated into the Tide sunglasses, protecting your eyes from dirt and debris on windy days. The glasses are available in three different color schemes: gray lens/matte black frame, Venice gold mirror lens/matte brown frame and POL Blue mirror lens/gloss black frame. ($100 gray lens/matte black frame; $150 polarized; WileyX.com)

4 GERBER

MP1-AR MULTI-TOOL

The MP1-AR Multi-Tool is the next evolution of Gerber's eFECT, the world's first military-grade multi-tool designed for the AR-15/M4/M16 weapon platform. It comes loaded with implements for cleaning and maintaining AR-style rifles, as well as other important everyday tools like a knife and flathead screwdriver. This great multi-tool includes a punch for takedown pins, a dental-style carbon pick for cleaning the bolt's ejector and other hard-to-reach areas and a larger carbon scraper for cleaning the bolt and inside the bolt carrier. It also features a magnetic bit driver that accepts standard bits and comes with flat, Phillips, hex and Torx bits often used for adjusting optics and accessories. A front sight adjustment tool and a trigger assembly pin punch are also included in the MP1-AR bit set. Other tools include needle nose pliers and a full-size serrated blade. The MP1-AR comes with a MOLLE-compatible coyote nylon sheath for secure storage. ($176; GerberGear.com)

5 SILENCERCO HARVESTER

Specifically designed for hunting and long-range shooting applications, the SilencerCo Harvester is an incredibly lightweight .30-caliber rifle suppressor compatible with everything from 5.7mm to .300 Win. Mag. At a miniscule 11.3 ounces, the Harvester is the perfect companion for any trip to the field, especially if that trip involves a lot of walking. The Harvester features fully welded, hardened, tool-grade stainless steel baffles for added durability and repeatable accuracy. The suppressor is compatible with direct thread mounts and comes with an Anchor Brake for recoil reduction. A larger Harvester Big Bore 338, compatible with .338 Lapua Magnum, is also available. ($704; SilencerCo.com)

6 SILENCERCO OMEGA

The Omega from SilencerCo takes much of the technology and features from SilencerCo's .30-caliber centerfire rifle suppressors and combines them in one suppressor. The result is one of the shortest, lightest, quietest and most versatile .30-caliber suppressors to date. The Omega is full-auto and magnum-rated courtesy of its durable combined titanium, stainless steel and Stellite construction. For added versatility and adaptability, each Omega suppressor comes with two mounting options: a 5/8-inchx24 direct thread mount and a fast-attach Active Spring Retention (ASR) mount with Specwar ASR muzzle brake. An Anchor Brake is also included for improved recoil reduction. Most impressive, the Omega is compatible with diverse ammunition ranging from 5.7mm to .300 Win. Mag. Suitable for use with .223 Rem./5.56 NATO in 10-inch barrels or larger, with .308 Win./7.62 NATO in 16-inch barrels or larger, and with magnum calibers in barrels over 20 inches, the Omega is an incredibly versatile suppressor for many applications. Reloading & Ammunition

There are tons of great options for ammo and reloading out there, and we've spent the past year testing many of them. Here's our list of the best for 2015.

PHIL MASSARO

It's an exciting time in the shooting world, and there are some truly revolutionary introductions being made in the ammunition and component sectors. The old standard cartridges can be improved, or if you're so inclined, you may pick out a new design to make all sorts of new memories with. Shotshells are evolving as well, with new shot shapes and metals among the standard loads.

We've spent time with these great loads and components introduced during the past year and have put together a list of several of the best. It's difficult to choose the best among so many great options, but the following represent some of the best ammo and components from 2015.

1 WINCHESTER DEER SEASON XP AMMUNITION

Everybody loves a good deer bullet. Let's face it, it's the number one game animal of all time. The new Winchester Deer Season XP ammo features a flat base, cup-and-core bullet, with a larger than normal polymer tip to initiate expansion for large amounts of hydrostatic shock. This translates into a bullet designed to give optimum performance on the relatively thin-skinned whitetail deer. Is it a good choice for an elk/moose bullet? Probably not, but it should be perfect for the deer woods. The folks at Winchester assure me it will give performance similar to the older Power Point model but with a bit better expansion to switch that big bruiser's power supply to "off." Available in deer-worthy calibers: .243 Win., .270 Win., 7mm Rem. Mag., .308 Win., .30-'06 Springfield and .300 Win. Mag. (Winchester.com)

2 SIG SAUER ELITE PERFORMANCE AMMUNITION

The prestigious firm of SIG Sauer has answered the .300 Blackout calling, offering their Match Grade ammunition in both subsonic and supersonic configurations. Both loads feature the time-tested Sierra MatchKing bullet, with the subsonic load centered on the 220-grain MatchKing and the supersonic load using the 125-grain MatchKing. SIG loads both of these cartridges into match-grade brass cases to maximize the accuracy of the Blackout round. The supersonic load has a muzzle velocity of 2,200 fps, giving a dead-flat trajectory from muzzle out to 100 yards, and even the subsonic load, with its heavy and slow bullet, will be 3.2 inches high at 50 yards to be zeroed at 100 yards. This gives .300 Blackout fans a very diverse pair of factory match-grade loads for their AR, using one of the best bullets available on the market. (SIGSauer.com)

2 HORNADY ELD-X

Announced in the fall of 2015, Hornady's ELD-X bullets have been in the hands of some of our contributors for several months now, and the results are quite impressive. The ELD-X (extremely low drag, expanding) is a match-accurate bullet built for hunting—giving shooters maximum accuracy along with maximum carnage on game animals, even out to significant distances. Unlike most polymer-tipped bullets, the ELD-X tip is made with a unique polymer that won't melt at high velocities, thus retaining form even out to extended ranges. This allows for an extremely accurate bullet that still expands on game, near or far. The ELD-X bullet is featured in Hornady's new Precision Hunter line and features the company's InterLock technology. (Hornady.com)

4 RCBS PROCHUCKER 7 PROGRESSIVE PRESS

For those high-volume shooters who appreciate the benefits of a progressive press, you'd do well to take a look at the new RCBS seven-station ProChucker 7. Auto-indexing and with a removable die plate, the option of seven stations gives the reloader plenty of flexibility. Gone are the plastic APS primer strips of the RCBS Pro2000 AutoIndex progressive; the ProChucker comes with a standard primer pickup tube and a safety shield. The press also comes with the Quick Change powder measure with larger powder capacity to reduce the number of times you'll need to refill the hopper, and a drain tube allows you to rapidly empty the hopper when your session is over. It's never a good idea to leave powder in the hopper of your press, as the possibility of someone fooling around and spilling it certainly exists, but also because some pistol powders have been known to have a chemical reaction with the plastic material and sort of "melt" the plastic if left for prolonged periods of time, and

that's never a good thing. Having seven stations will allow you to seat and crimp in separate functions and use a bullet feeder and lockout die without issue. And with the removable die plate you can quickly change calibers by removing two pins and swapping out plates and shell plates. Output capacity is roughly 600 rounds per hour, so this makes a solid choice for those who participate in the gun games or have fun making huge piles of empty brass at the range. (RCBS.com)

5 SWIFT BULLET COMPANY'S RELOADING MANUAL NO. 2

OK, I'll admit it: I'm a geek who enjoys reading reloading manuals, and I get excited when a new one comes out. It didn't take 10 seconds after finding out that Swift published Manual No. 2 before I was on the phone ordering mine. The manual covers all the new developments from Swift, such as the .22-caliber Scirocco II bullets, as well as new calibers like the .300 Ruger Compact Magnum and data for the many new powders on the market. There are more powders tested per caliber, and energy and trajectory tables optimized for the performance level of each cartridge are included. All of our old favorites are still there, and if you are a lover of Swift Bullets like I am, this manual is a must have. (SwiftBullets.com)

6 ALLIANT RELODER 23 & 26 RIFLE POWDERS

The Reloder series of powders dates back to the old Hercules Powder Co., and they've had a great lineup for decades. I routinely use Reloder powder for my own rifle cartridges: RL-15 in the .308 Win. and .375 H&H, RL-19 in my .300 Win. Mag., RL-25 in the .300 Remington Ultra Magnum, and I've been overheard referring to Reloder 22 as "a miracle in a can." They are very consistent, not to mention their accuracy potential. The new offerings from Alliant are no exception, but there are some improvements, especially in the realm of temperature sensitivity. As much as I love these older powders, they are susceptible to temperature fluctuations. They lose a bit of velocity in the colder extremes and gain some in the hotter temperatures, and pressures change accordingly. Alliant has changed the game with these two new releases. Both Reloder 23 and 26 are designed to be extremely consistent across the full range of temperatures, minimizing the velocity and pressure deviation associated with temperature extremes. Reloder 23 has a burn rate similar (but again, not interchangeable) to Reloder 22, and Reloder 26 burns a bit slower than Reloder 25, so those of you who love the huge-cased super magnums should make a couple of new friends here rather quickly. I know my beloved .300 Win. Mag. will appreciate the new all-weather propellants! (AlliantPowder.com)

7 THE 28 NOSLER

After the shockwave created by last year's unveiling of the 26 Nosler, based on the modified Remington Ultra Magnum case (itself being a blown out version of the .404 Jeffery), it only made sense for Nosler to open that case to hold 7mm bullets. Both the 26 and 28 Nosler are designed to blend the case diameter and rebated rim of the RUM series in a case short enough to fit in a .30-06-length action. Pushing a 160-grain AccuBond bullet to 3,300 feet per second (fps) and a 175-grain AccuBond Long Range bullet to just over 3,100 fps, this is going to be a winner. In terms of speed and power, it lies just south of the huge 7mm RUM and STW, but well above the uber-popular 7mm Rem. Mag., and can be housed in a long-action rifle. The beltless design will give better case life than the Holland & Holland design, as there will be less of the stretching that occurs just north of the belt. By launching the 7mm bullets that are so popular with big game hunters, the 28 Nosler will be in many trophy pictures to come. (28Nosler.com)

8 THE 6.5-300 WEATHERBY

In addition to introducing a new Mark V rifle this year, Weatherby has necked down its famous .300 Weatherby case to hold 6.5mm bullets, taking the crown as the fastest of the 6.5mm cartridges. Pushing a 127-grain bullet at a muzzle velocity of over 3,500 fps, it's guaranteed this will be a serious long-range cartridge with a very flat trajectory. If you're into a reach-out-and-touch-'em cartridge that features a bore diameter well known for its long-range accuracy, you might want to give the 6.5-300 Weatherby a try. The initial field reports are showing fantastic accuracy and terminal performance. The new 6.5-300 Weatherby will be in a similar category to the Remington Ultra Magnum series: not exactly efficient, but a great long-range setup for those who can handle it. (Weatherby.com)

9 ABM AMMUNITION

Berger bullets are no stranger to the handloading world; they've been the favorite of target shooters for quite some time. With few exceptions, the long, sleek bullets with their high Ballistic Coefficients have required handloading, but all that has changed courtesy of Applied Ballistic Munitions. Now it's possible to get the quality of Berger bullets without having to do your own reloading. Offering factory loaded ammo in .308 Win., .300 Win. Mag. and the mighty .338 Lapua, you can choose between hunting bullets and target bullets in several different weights and configurations of Berger Bullets. ABM offers three grades: Mission Ready, Target Ready and Hunt Ready. Each is loaded with the appropriate style of Berger bullet for the job at hand. I liked the .300 Win. Mag. load

10 WINCHESTER LONG BEARD XR SHOTSHELLS

Winchester has offered a solution to shot deformation and premature pattern expansion with its new Long Beard XR series of shotshells. The shot column of the Long Beard XR is held together with a hardened resin, so the shot at the rear of the column does not become deformed from the violent impact of the powder charge's ignition. The resin keeps the column protected until free of the bore, where it breaks apart and falls away, leaving a virtually perfect group of shot that will fly well and deliver the goods at farther distances than will deformed shot. That equals more hits at long ranges and better patterns throughout the range of shots. Available in 12-gauge, 3-inch length shells with 1 3/4-ounce or 1 7/8-ounce payloads of size 4, 5 or 6 shot; or 3 1/2-inch length shells with 2-ounce or 2 1/8-ounce payloads of size 4, 5 or 6 shot. Mr. Gobbler, I apologize in advance! (Winchester.com)

11 REDDING MASTER HUNTER DIE SETS FOR 26 & 28 NOSLER

The 26 & 28 Nosler are fantastic new cartridges, as we've pointed out above. But if you can't handload for them, it takes half the fun out of it. Not to worry, the team at Redding Reloading has you covered. New for 2015, the Master Hunter series uses a standard full-length sizing die and a Competition seating die. If you're unfamiliar with Redding Competition dies, this is the cool one with the micrometer-adjustable bullet seater. When seating depth gets critical, having micrometer-adjustable seating depth is a definite advantage to a traditional seating die, where you screw the seating adjustment up or down a bit and hope you've got it close. You can load those new Nosler cartridges with any brand of bullet you choose and start working up your custom loads with the high tolerances and repeatability of Redding Dies. As always, Redding sets the standard with these new Nosler-friendly die sets—sure to be a hit at the reloading benches for hoards of long-range shooters. (Redding-Reloading.com) GDTM

Best Optics

Manufacturers have produced a number of optics over the course of the past year. Here's a look at our picks for the best optics of 2015.

What's the difference between a good scope and a great one? That's a question you don't want to ask when the buck of a lifetime is staring at you from across the canyon. Quality glass—spotting scopes, binoculars, riflescopes and rangefinders—can mean the difference between a successful hunt or a bust, a win or loss at the range.

The good news? We made your job a little easier by taking a close look at the countless optics available today and whittling the choices to the best of the best. Yeah, they will probably set you back a pretty penny, but you know what they say: You get what you pay for. Besides, what quality piece of equipment isn't expensive these days?

1 TRIJICON ACCUPOWER

Trijicon's newest offering is a deviation from their battery-free, tritium-lighted reticle, but it's a winner by its own right. The AccuPower's illuminated reticle is powered by a lithium battery, which lasts at least 31 hours at the highest setting and includes 11 settings with an "off" feature between each setting. Lining up the bull's eye in the lowest light is as easy as looking through the scope. The full multi-layer coated glass allows crisp edge-to-edge views and super-high light transmission. The second focal plane reticle gives long-range shooters a clear view of the smallest targets. Each scope is available in at least three reticle choices, and you can choose from 1-4x24, 2.5-10x56, 3-9x40 and 4-16x50. ($699; Trijicon.com)

2 SWAROVSKI X5

Swarovski's X5 long-range scope is the first true long-range scope from the Austrian company. It's available in three versions: 3.5-18x50, 5-25x56 and 5-25x56, which offers 1/8 or 1/4 MOA impact point adjustment. All three are built with Swarovski's high standards and highest quality materials. Like other Swarovski products, the X5 isn't cheap, but it will be the last long-range scope you'll ever buy. The wide field of view allows for rapid target acquisition, the fully multi-coated lenses offer maximum light transmission and clarity, and the high-contrast reticle gives you the ability to see the smallest details. All three models include a sub-zero feature that allows you to go below the sight-in distance for close targets, and all three offer three different reticles. The 5-25 has a max elevation MOA of 82 and a max windage MOA of 50. ($3,499; SwarovskiOptic.com)

3 STEINER M5XI 3-15X50 MILITARY OPTIC

You don't have to join the military to get the best equipment in the world. You'll have to pay for it yourself, of course, but when your pride, your elk tag or your standing in the shooting competition is on the line, who wouldn't want a scope used by our military's top shooters? Steiner's German-made M5Xi is perfect for competition shooters as well as hunters who stretch out their shots. An 11-stage illuminated G2B Mil-Dot or MSR reticle allows for precision shots in any light condition, and the patented DuoScale elevation knob lets you make fast adjustments in the field. The 34mm tube is waterproof and shock-proof. The elevation range is 26 mils at 100 meters and the windage range is 6 mils at 100 meters. ($3,329.99; Steiner-Optics.com)

4 NIKON PROSTAFF 7i

Some of the best optics don't require you to choose between new equipment and your kid's college tuition. Nikon's new Prostaff 7i rangefinder isn't just perfect for budget-minded mothers and fathers, it's faster, lighter, more accurate and just plain better than many of the other rangefinders available today. It takes just a half-second to accurately measure out to 1,300 yards. It's small enough to carry anywhere and for any type of hunting. It weighs just 6.2 ounces, and the viewer has 6x magnification. Measured increments are .1 yards out to 1,000 yards and 1 yard from 1,000 to 1,300 yards. It's waterproof and includes a target priority switch, allowing you to measure overlapping subjects, and it comes with a horizontal and actual distance display mode. ($299.95; NikonSportOptics.com)

5 G7 BR2 RANGEFINDER

The G7 BR2 is packed with features that help all shooters and hunters make better shots, but hands down, it's the best tool for long-range enthusiasts. It's programmable for up to five cartridge combinations, and inputs include ballistic coefficient, sight height, muzzle velocity, altitude and temperature. Onboard sensors measure the incline angle, barometric pressure and altitude. Shoot-to range works with BDC and holdover reticles. With a functional range of 1,500 yards, a 7x magnification and a weight of just 14.3 ounces, you'll carry this tool when you need to make every shot count. ($1,599; GSeven.com)

6 NIGHTFORCE TS80

Nightforce's newest spotting scope, the TS-80 Hi-Def 20-60x, is a follow-up to its award-winning TS-82, the company's first spotting scope model. The TS-80 is a winner, too. It's not just fast and easy to use; it comes with all the features you need in a spotting scope. It's built with fully multi-coated lenses and an internal prism design for maximum light transmission. It offers a bright, clear view at all distances. A large, knurled focus ring allows for fast target focus, and a magnesium alloy body gives you peace of mind every time you take the TS-80 out of its case. It weighs 68 ounces. ($1,595; Nightforceoptics.com)

7 SWAROVSKI ATX

Is it any wonder the name Swarovski shows up on "Best Of" lists everywhere? Pick up any of the company's products, put your eyes to it and you'll see why. Swarovski's newest spotting scope, the ATX, is another first-class product. Built with the highest quality glass, the best materials and industry-leading standards, the ATX is right at home in the most rugged backcountry or on a perfectly manicured rifle range. The objective lens is available in either a straight or angled eyepiece to suit your style of glassing, and one-hand operation allows for easy and comfortable use. Available in 25-60x65, 30-70x95 and 25-60x85 and weighing just 55.9 ounces, you'll see your target clearer and at longer distances than ever before. ($3,775; SwarovskiOptik.com)

8 AIMPOINT MICRO T-2

"Micro" is certainly an appropriate name for Aimpoint's new Micro T-2 sight. Weighing just 3.7 ounces (including the mount) and measuring just 2.7 inches long, it's the ideal 1x, 2-MOA red dot sight for shooters of all stripes. It works on handguns, shotguns and rifles and even as a piggyback sight. An integral Picatinny-style base attaches to any rail. The T-2 has four night vision-compatible settings and eight daylight settings. If that's not enough, the battery lasts up to 50,000 hours. The lenses allow maximum light transmission for fast and crystal-clear target acquisition. ($736; Aimpoint.com)

9 ZEISS

VICTORY SF

Zeiss' new Victory SF binoculars may cost more than your first car, but you'll never have to buy another pair of binoculars again. Built with a seven-lens element eyepiece and a field flattener for sharp, bright images, the Victory SF binoculars are available in 8x42 and 10x42. They have some of the widest fields of view in the industry. Zeiss built them with a faster focusing wheel and a new design that fits in your hands better, feels better and reduces fatigue better than any pair of binoculars you've held before. They weigh just 27.5 ounces and are backed with a limited no-fault lifetime warranty. ($2,888.87; Zeiss.com)

10 MAVEN

B1 8X42

You may have never heard of Maven, but don't let that fool you. The small Wyoming-based company only makes three binocular models, which means they can focus on quality and customer service. Their B1 weighs less than 30 ounces and is available in 8x42 and 10x42 models. The view is bright, crisp and crystal-clear from edge-to-edge. The glass allows nearly 92-percent light transmission. If quality craftsmanship isn't enough, Maven allows you to build a custom pair with your favorite color combinations. Wrap it in your choice of two solid or five camo patterns and customize everything from the focus knob to the lens rings in eight color choices. What better way to personalize the binoculars you'll carry around your neck every time you shoot or hunt? ($900; MavenBuilt.com)

11 VORTEX

RAZOR HD

Vortex may not carry the name recognition of the better-known European companies, but their products are everything you could want in optics. The Razor HD binoculars are not only packed with features, they are light, sturdy and just plain easy to carry and use. Fully multi-coated glass allows maximum light transmission, and HD lens elements offer a clear, true sight picture. These roof prism binoculars weigh just 24.8 ounces and are available in 8x42, 10x42, 10x50 and 12x50. They are waterproof and fog proof and are coated with a durable rubber armor to protect them from all the abuse you can dish out. ($1,499; VortexOptics.com)

12 SWAROVSKI

8X42 EL RANGE

Tired of carrying a rangefinder and binoculars? Not only did Swarovski solve that dilemma, they solved it with the best available technology in a single product. Their new EL Range range-finding binoculars offer immediate ranging from 33 to 1,500 yards and include a scan mode to measure moving targets. The angle-adjustment display helps take the guesswork out of distances at various angles. Just point, click and shoot. They also include an auto-brightness option. Available in 8x42 and 10x42, the EL Range binoculars have a 411-foot field of view at 1,000 yards and offer 91 percent light transmission, thanks to Swarovski's highest quality glass. They weigh just 31.6 ounces. ($3,577; SwarovskiOptik.com) GDTM

Our expert writers and editorial staff spent the year shooting many different AR-style rifles. Here we round up the best for 2015.

EDITORIAL STAFF

Best ARs of the Year

Without question one of the nation's most popular rifles, the AR is constantly being tinkered with, experimented on and—in some cases—almost entirely reinvented. Every year manufacturers across the country introduce a multitude of new AR-style rifles to the gun-buying public. Some of these manufacturers are well-established industry giants that have spent years building guns; others are small-scale gun makers that are either new or recent arrivals in the gun world.

Over the course of this past year, our expert writers and editorial staff spent considerable time testing and using a number of AR-style rifles and pistols newly released in 2015. We put these firearms through their paces, examining reliability, accuracy and ergonomics to see which ones stood out in a crowded market. Based on the results and our experiences, here are what we feel are several of the best ARs to come out within the last year.

1 BLACK RAIN ORDNANCE .300 BLK

Black Rain Ordnance (BRO) has always been known for its focus on quality over quantity, and the company's new .300 BLK rifle is no exception to this. During our time with the rifle, we found it to be a reliable performer with great accuracy for caliber. Featuring Black Rain's exclusive single-stage trigger, nickel boron bolt carrier and billet aluminum, the rifle is built for lasting performance. BRO's .300 BLK rifle utilizes a pistol-length gas system with a Syrac Ordnance adjustable gas block and is available with multiple Magpul furniture options and multiple handguard options. It has a 16-inch 416 stainless steel barrel with a 1:7-inch twist and eight-flute design and sports a tan digital anodized finish. The .300 BLK rifle is sleek, sophisticated and performs at a high level. ($2,439; BlackRainOrdnance.com)

2 ROCK RIVER ARMS LAR-300 X-1

The new LAR-300 X-1 expands Rock River's X Series of rifles to include the .300 BLK, and like previous models in the line, this rifle offers loads of performance at a relatively reasonable price point. The LAR-300 X-1 features an 18-inch fluted and bead blasted, stainless steel, cryo-treated barrel and Rock River's two-stage trigger, both of which resulted in more than adequate accuracy during our testing. The rifle comes in either a black finish with Rock River's Operator CAR adjustable stock and Beast muzzle brake or a tan finish with Rock River's Operator A2 fixed stock and Hunter muzzle brake. It also comes equipped with Rock River's TRO-XL free float handguard and a comfortable Hogue grip. ($1,585; RockRiverArms.com)

3 YHM MODEL 57 SPECTER

Yankee Hill Machine Co. has been manufacturing fine AR-style rifles and parts for the past couple of decades, and its Model 57 Specter carries on that tradition. The rifle features light, artfully machined but durable billet 7075-T6 aluminum receivers. It sports YHM's SLR Slant handguard, which comes with rail points all along the top and at the 3, 6 and 9 o'clock positions toward the front—as well as YHM's Q.D.S. flip up sights; Slant muzzle brake; and Magpul's CTR stock and MOE grip. Other performance features include a 16-inch heat-treated 4140 steel barrel with YHM's exclusive ball-cut fluting; a two-stage, 5-pound, drop-in trigger; a tactical charging handle; and a low-profile gas block. ($2,635; YHM.net)

4 CMMG MK3 .308

New from CMMG, the Mk3 in .308 Win. features an 18-inch, 416 stainless steel, heavy-taper barrel and a fixed A1-length buttstock, making it an excellent choice for hunting medium-sized game or for engaging targets at the range. The rifle comes with CMMG's RKM15 KeyMod handguard for mounting a diverse array of KeyMod-compatible accessories and rail sections and utilizes a rifle-length gas system. The Mk3 incorporates billet 6061-T6 AL LR308-type receivers and comes in at a weight of 9.3 pounds unloaded. While this is heavier than some .308 ARs, it isn't out of the norm, and we found it countered recoil effectively without being overly heavy to carry. It is available at a fairly reasonable price point for an AR in .308 Win. and comes with CMMG's lifetime quality guarantee. ($1,599; CMMGInc.com)

5 SIG SAUER MCX

SIG has been making a lot of noise in the industry, releasing a ton of new products in 2015. The MCX platform is one of its finest new introductions. We had the opportunity to shoot and review this modular masterpiece and came away very impressed. With its ability to quickly change between 5.56 NATO/.223 Rem., .300 BLK and 7.62x39mm and its ultra-reliable, self-regulating, adjustable gas-piston system, the MCX is one of the most adaptable rifles out there. At a scant 6 pounds, it's also incredibly lightweight. The rifle comes with SIG's SAS folding stock, a KeyMod handguard and SIG's proprietary grip. During testing, the rifle proved both incredibly reliable and plenty accurate for a combat-inspired carbine. ($1,866; SIGEvolution.com)

6 CMMG MK47 MUTANT PISTOL

When CMMG released the Mk47 Mutant in late 2014, it was an exciting development for those interested in AR/AK hybrids. New for 2015, the Mk47 K pistol takes the reliable Mutant platform and places it in a compact pistol package. The Mutant pistol variant adopts most of the same features as its larger sibling but comes with a shorter, 10-inch barrel and a 9-inch handguard. Despite its shortened barrel, the pistol remained plenty accurate and reliable. Like the original Mutant, the Mk47 K uses CMMG's unique lower receiver that accepts all standard AK magazines. The lower comes fitted with an ergonomic Magpul MOE grip and an AR-style safety. Each Mk47 K also comes with an SV muzzle brake and a 30-round AK PMAG. ($1,499; CMMGInc.com) GDTM

Best Concealed Carry Guns & Gear of the Year

Our editors and expert contributing writers pick the best guns and gear for concealed carry in 2015.

EDITORIAL STAFF

With more and more states enacting laws to allow concealed carry, the number of people applying for and receiving concealed carry permits is higher than ever. Of course, this also means that a larger number of concealed carry guns and accessories are being sold. Manufacturers took notice in 2015 and produced a host of excellent concealed carry products designed to be both comfortable for everyday use and reliable in the event of a deadly encounter.

Our expert writers and editorial staff tested and reviewed these purpose-built products over the course of the year. During our time with these firearms and accessories, we thoroughly researched, tested and reviewed each one, gradually developing opinions regarding their performance and utility. Here are our picks for the best carry guns and gear of 2015.

1 GUNCRAFTER INDUSTRIES MODEL 5

Guncrafter Industries (GI) has made its name in the firearm industry largely because of founder Alex Zimmerman's unique .50 GI, a bonafide .50-caliber cartridge designed for use with the venerable 1911 platform. New for 2015 is the company's Model 5, a pistol built around a 1911 officer-size frame, chambered in the .50 GI and intended for concealed carry. We were initially skeptical about the practicality of a .50-caliber cartridge in a pistol built for carry, but the Model 5 proved our concerns false. Recoil with the Model 5 is mostly comparable to shooting any other .45 ACP 1911, and the pistol's officer-size frame is surprisingly concealable. Accuracy is also more than adequate given the Model 5's 4.25-inch heavy match grade barrel. In addition to its performance, the pistol itself is finely crafted and remarkable in appearance, a true winner for anyone looking for a high-class 1911 for carry that packs more punch. ($3,825; GuncrafterIndustries.com)

2 GLOCK 43

Fans of Glock pistols have long been clamoring for a single-stack 9mm tailored for concealed carry, and this past spring the company finally delivered with the G43. At 6.26 inches in length, 4.25 inches in height and 1.02 inches in width, the G43 isn't the smallest of the micro-nines out there, but during testing we found this helped in terms of its shootability. We didn't constantly have to readjust our grip, as is the case with many small, single-stack pistols designed for concealed carry. And the pistol shot well, with groups right around 1 inches at self-defense distances. Additionally, because it is a Glock, it retains the same great reliability and the controls of its many older siblings. Overall, the G43 is an excellent concealed carry choice, being both eminently concealable and utterly reliable. ($529; US.Glock.com)

3 ALIEN GEAR CLOAK TUCK 3.0 IWB HOLSTER

Alien Gear Holsters has rapidly made a name for itself due to its extremely durable, comfortable and useable holsters. The new Cloak Tuck 3.0, which is an upgraded version of the Cloak Tuck 2.0, is a prime example of the company's dedication to this goal. It rides comfortably inside the waistband and requires zero break-in time. The holster features a thermo-elastomer, stainless spring-steel and Alien Gear's "Alien Skin" outer texture. Retention and flexibility are improved over the previous 2.0 model, as is comfort. Conveniently, the Cloak Tuck 3.0 is also waterproof, which makes it even more durable over time. The Cloak Tuck 3.0 is without question an improvement upon the prior design, and it represents one of the best inside-the-waistband (IWB) holsters out there. ($44; AlienGearHolsters.com)

4 HK P30SK

For 2015, Heckler & Koch introduced a scaled-down version of its classic P30 pistol. However, in typical HK fashion, the company didn't just cut down the size of its P30; instead, it took the time to engineer and produce a dedicated concealed carry gun that is built to perform and last. Like its bigger brother, the P30SK utilizes a double-action/single-action (DA/SA) design with an initial 12-pound DA trigger pull and a subsequent 5.5-pound SA trigger pull afterward. While 12 pounds is stout, we found the pull to be smooth and the break clean. The P30SK features luminescent three-dot sights, which are easy to use in various lighting conditions, and a textured, ergonomic grip that is incredibly comfortable and offers secure purchase. Accuracy is excellent, with around 1-inch groups possible at self-defense distances, and the pistol is very reliable—both important in a concealed carry gun. ($719; HK-USA.com)

5 FNS-9 COMPACT

The FNS striker-fired pistol line from FNH USA has been well received among shooters, so it only made sense the company would develop a more compact version suitable for concealed carry. The FNS-9 Compact utilizes a shorter 3.6-inch barrel for a total length of 6.7 inches. It also features a shorter grip frame that accommodates a 12-round magazine in 9mm or a 10-round magazine in .40 S&W. All of these come together in a pistol that weighs just 23.4 ounces. The pistol comes with completely ambidextrous controls and has a textured polymer grip affording the user a firm grasp. The FNS-9 Compact incorporates three-dot adjustable sights with a bold white front sight that we really favored. The trigger is similar to other compact striker-fired pistols, breaking at between 5.5 and 7.7 pounds, and it has a short and positive reset. FNH kept what was great about the FNS series—namely, its reliability and accuracy—and placed it in a compact pistol perfect for carry. ($599; FNHUSA.com)

6 CROSSBREED APPENDIX CARRY HOLSTER

The Appendix Carry holster from Crossbreed is an innovative and supremely functional holster. One of the company's top sellers in the IWB category, the Appendix Carry holster utilizes a hand-molded pocket in order to ensure a precise, tight fit. The holster effectively conceals small- to medium-frame firearms for comfortable and unobtrusive all-day carry. In addition, the holster can be adjusted for ride height and can also be worn in the cross-draw position. The Appendix Carry holster is an excellent choice for those who prefer a forward carry position. Exceedingly comfortable and durable, the Appendix Carry holster can be had in Hand Dyed Black Cowhide, Premium Tan Cowhide or, when available, Natural Tan Horsehide. ($63; CrossBreedHolsters.com)

7 DESANTIS SPEED SCABBARD

DeSantis produces some fine holsters for both inside-the-waistband (IWB) carry and outside-the-waistband (OWB) carry. The new No. 2 Speed Scabbard is a great OWB option that features a classic two-piece pancake design and is made from high quality leather. Each holster is precisely manufactured to fit a specific firearm to ensure a firm, tight hold. The Speed Scabbard also utilizes duty tough stitching for durable and lasting use. Models come with two belt slots that are 1 3/4 inches wide for an adjustable cant, or a tension screw for adjustable retention. The Speed Scabbard is available in either black or tan unlined leather. ($76; DeSantisHolster.com)

8 BLACKHAWK A.R.C. HOLSTER

Introduced during the 2015 NRA Annual Meeting and Exhibits, the new Blackhawk A.R.C. (Appendix Reversible Carry) is a perfect option for those who prefer the appendix carry position. Blackhawk has made some tremendous innovations out of its Montana-based factory using injection-molded polymer, and the A.R.C. is one such product. The holster's injection-molded body is soft and somewhat flexible but extremely rugged. The soft polymer is comfortable inside the waistband, allowing the user to wear the holster for extended periods of time. This appendix carry holster is completely reversible and ambidextrous to accommodate both left- and right-handed shooters. The A.R.C. comes with two cant and ride height adjustment belt clips that fit 1.5- and 1.75-inch belts as well as a passive retention detent with adjustment screw for even more customization. ($23; Blackhawk.com)

9 GALCO KINGTUK HOLSTER

Galco has been in the holster business for many years—first starting as a small family business in 1969—and the company has stayed competitive by consistently innovating its holster lineup. The company's KingTuk holster is an excellent example of this. An IWB holster combining a comfortable backing plate constructed from lined saddle leather and a solid Kydex holster pocket, the KingTuk offers precise, secure retention and fast, easy holstering for the given firearm. Carry height and angle are easily adjustable courtesy of two metal belt clips that can be moved up or down. For those who prefer a lower profile on the belt, the KingTuk also comes with optional C-hooks. The holster is available in black, and Galco recommends users wear it between the 3 and 5 o'clock position for right-handed shooters and between 7 and 9 o'clock for lefties.

This is our new FLATTOP HUNTER. It is built on your Ruger base gun, which can be the Blackhawk, Super Blackhawk or Bisley and your base gun does not have to be a flattop frame. That is part of the conversion. The gun is chambered in your choice of 356 GNR, 41 GNR, 41 Magnum, 410 GNR, 429 GNR, 44 Magnum, 45 Long Colt, 454 Casull, 455 GNR, 475 Linebaugh, 500 Linebaugh, 500 GNR or 510 GNR. The prototype gun is chambered in 475 Linebaugh, with a beefy 5 shot cylinder. It has a 6½" heavy duty barrel but the barrel length is up to you, up to 8". The new FLATTOP HUNTER is set up as the perfect hunting revolver, capable of taking anything on this planet. No frills or fancy features. It comes with our satin Vapor Honed finish with the bare necessities in engraving.

It is fitted with our Magnum gripframe and black Micarta grips. It has the interchangeable blade front sight system with your choice of gold bead, red or green fiber optic bead or standard black ramp. As normal the gun comes with a full action job, Deep Dish Crown, Maxi Throat and can be personalized with your name or initials on it at no extra charge. As always, one third down and we begin work on your new FLATTOP HUNTER.

M21-20ga. & 28ga. Standard Grade-Two Barrel Set. Bbl. #1-20ga.-28" bored Full & Mod. Bbl. #2-28ga.-28" bored I.C. & Mod. The 28ga. barrels are the original, early style-"Mid 1930s". "They had no peer for strength and dependability. Carefully fashioned by hand, these barrels today are still the hallmark of excellence and are very scarce. The barrels are raised matted rib with metal bead sights. "DOUBLE TRIGGERS WITH EJECTORS". The stock is the first early style with long slender pistol grip made only the first few years of production and both barrels have the early style Splinter Forends. L.O.P. 14", Comb 1-9/16", Heel 2-3/8". Being a Standard Grade the checkering pattern is 20 lines per inch Diamond Pattern. It has been completely factory refurbished. This M21 has the classic look which serves as the standard for the Model 21! $18,500.

M21-20ga. Skeet Grade, bbl. #1-28" raised matted rib, bored W.S.-I & W.S.-2. Non-Automatic Safety, single trigger, select ejectors, pistol grip stock, checkered butt. L.O.P. 14-5/16" -drop at heel 2-1/2" -comb 1-1/2"-pitch 1-5/8". Skeet finish, inspection finish date Oct. 29, 1948. "A SECOND 410ga. BARREL WAS ADDED, 28" -3" CHAMBERS BORED W.S.-I & W.S.-2." All proof & builder's mark are correct and indicates barrel was done at the factory. Condition 99%, and has the old style leather case with all accessories.

A remarkable M21 to say the least from my personal collection. $19,900.

M21-20ga. Two Barrel Set – S.N. 5296. Barrel #1-28" Full & Mod. Barrel #2-26" W.S. 1 & W.S. 2. Raised matted ribs. Returned to Factory under Repair Order-37890 August 3, 1978. It was completely refurbished and embellished with the second barrel, 21-3 engraving, streamlined the receiver to a "FlatSide" also called Full Rounded. The stock has been replaced with the straight style configuration and a Checkered Butt. L.O.P. 14-1/4" Comb 1-1/2" Heel 2-1/2". All proof marks and builder's stamps are correct. A very nice older "1935" Factory M21 in 98% condition, Cased, $12,500.

M62-S.N. 187483-Mfg. 1947-Style Sporting Rifle. 23" round tapered barrel tubular magazine. 22-Short-Long & Long Rifle. The wood is fancy and in new condition. It is engraved with factory pattern #8 with squirrels sitting on tree branches with scrolls on front & rear of receiver. Right side has rabbit sitting on a knoll with scroll work on front & rear of receiver. Engraved by former "Custom Shop Engraver" and signed. An exceptional M62, includes hang tag & M62 take-down manual. $4,200.

ADAPTER & CONVERSION UNITS OF ALL TYPES:

- INSERTS FOR BREAK-OPEN SHOTGUNS
- CHAMBER ADAPTER FOR RIFLES
- CHAMBER ADAPTER FOR SPECIALTY PISTOLS
- ANTIQUES & WILDCATS CUSTOM MADE!

These inserts/adapters allow rifle owners to target practice at local indoor ranges where full power loads are prohibited, or take small game without the noise, meat destruction or the expense of full loads. As a survival device, my adapters are unequalled, allowing a single rifle or pistol to fire a variety of ammunition. New shooters will learn marksmanship without fighting recoil and loud muzzle blast.

LETHAL FORCE LAW: Get the Facts

Massad Ayoob's first book on the use of deadly force by the private citizen in defense of self and others, In the Gravest Extreme, is considered the authoritative text in its field. Deadly Force is the follow-up to this groundbreaking guide, incorporating Ayoob's thirty extra years of experience, during which he's been an expert witness in weapons cases, chair of the Firearms Committee of the American Society of Law Enforcement Trainers, and much more.

This guide will help you understand any legal and ethical issues concerning the use of lethal force by private citizens. You'll also learn about the social and psychological issues surrounding the use of lethal force for self-defense or in defense of others. In addition to exploring these issues, Ayoob also discusses the steps a responsible armed citizen can and should take in order to properly prepare for or help mitigate a lethal force situation.

AR-10 .308 Extended Steel Charging Handle Fully CNC'd in the USA with O/S Paddle Latch$99.99

AR-15 Extended Steel Charging Handle Fully CNC'd in the USA with O/S Paddle Latch$79.99

Fully CNC'd from billet steel. Power Custom charging handles are a tactical upgrade to the AR-10 (.308 rifles) platform and the AR-15/M-16's. The all steel body will not bend or break even under rigorous use. The extended charging handle latch makes it easy to operate the bolt when wearing gloves and the stippling on the face of the latch ensures solid grip when hands are sweaty and slippery. The AR-10 handle fits the .308 DPMS LR-308, Knight's Armament SR-25/MK11/M110, LaRue OSR, Noveske 308, and Patriot Ordnance Factory P-308; does NOT fit S&W MP10, Armalite® AR-10®, Rock River Arms, or SIG 716. Guaranteed to never break.

Hunter Education On Site Leads to Strong Youth Gun Sales

John Lewis—Herb Bauer Sporting Goods, Fresno, Cali., (HerbBauerSportingGoods.com)

Youth hunters and shooters are a growing part of the business done at Herb Bauer Sporting Goods, and the store itself facilitates much of that youth "traffic" by offering the state-mandated hunter education course on site.

"Our shop prides ourselves in educating many, many youths every year in our hunter education program," says Gun Department Manager John Lewis. "Our hunter safety teacher is a second generation female instructor who has a real passion for recruiting more kids to hunt in our state! She works closely with the California Department of Fish and Wildlife, and coordinates many special youth hunts each year, including dove, quail and pheasant hunts."

With these many young people coming through the store—with parents in tow—sales are very good on a number of youth model shotguns, especially single-shots made by Rossi and NEF. Top youth pump guns include Remington, Mossberg, Browning and Benelli Novas, and these young shooters prefer their new scatterguns in 20 gauge and .410.

For young rifleshooters, the Savage Rascal, a single-shot bolt-action with Savage's AccuTrigger, is tops here.

"Air guns are popular, too, especially as we get into the holiday season where we will sell over 50 Daisy Red Ryders—after customers watch their holiday favorite video!" says Lewis. That movie, of course, is 1983's A Christmas Story where young lead character Ralphie Parker pines for "an official" Red Ryder BB Gun for Christmas. The Red Ryder sells for just under $50.

Herb Bauer's also sells a good selection of Crosman youth rifles, popular as they can shoot both BB's and lead pellets.

Higher Magnification Optics for the Long-Range Crowd

Abbie Starkey—Bill's Sporting Goods, Claremore, Okla., (BillsSportingGoodsOK.com)

Long-range shooting is increasingly popular in northeastern Oklahoma, and that trend has made quality, high-magnification riflescopes a top seller.

"We are moving a lot more target-style scopes verses hunting scopes," said General Manager Abbie Starkey. "Vortex, Zeiss, Leupold and Nikon are our top sellers right now for optics. In the last year, we've seen a large push for 6-24x50mm-style scopes. As shooters start reaching out for longer distances, they want these longer-range optics."

The new 9mm Glock 43 "is flying out the door as quickly as we can get them in," Starkey notes. "The subcompact field is a growing market for us right now and we love it. As the concealed carry market grows in the Midwest, the smaller style handguns are becoming increasingly popular."

Also selling well are S&W M&P Shields and Springfield XD's. Ruger Americans are selling briskly, and there's strong interest in Ruger's new Precision Rifle. But no sales, because Bill's is having trouble just getting one of the Ruger Precisions in store. Top scattergun? The Stoeger 3500 semi-auto, a mid-priced shotgun.

A Big Market for Used Law Enforcement Firearms

Mark Kitterman—Summit Gun Broker, Grain Valley, Mo., (SummitGunBroker.com)

Summit Gun Broker specializes in buying up used law enforcement firearms and reselling them to individuals and gun shops. The current top seller here, says owner Mark Kitterman, is the .40-caliber Glock 22, a Gen III, semi-automatic handgun. A recent sale on the Summit website had the Glock 22's going for $309.

"I think a lot of agencies are looking at 9mm's once again, and when they make the shift, we see a lot of these .40-cal Glock 22's getting sold," says Kitterman.

"Actually, there's so many used agency Glocks and similar polymer pistols out there, prices have gone down. I've seen Glocks drop about $50 over the last year."

These Glocks tend to be in very good condition, he adds, as most agencies with a good inventory of the pistols have an employee who is also a certified Glock armorer. "They fix anything that goes wrong as it happens, and they are pretty good about doing regular maintenance on the pistols."

The other used agency handguns Kitterman is seeing in good numbers are the SIG P226 and P229's.

Recently, Summit bought up 1,000 shotguns—all Remingtons—from a very large agency making the switch from scatterguns to duty rifles. They sold out surprisingly fast, Kitterman notes, with the Wingmasters going for $165 each, the Police Magnums at $300.

Handguns Lead the Way, While Long Gun Sales Plug Along

Mike Howell—Bullock's Guns-n-More Inc., Flint, Mich., (BullocksGuns.com)

Handguns are currently the top movers at Bullock's Guns-n-More Inc., notes Sales and Purchasing Manager Mike Howell. "Our best sellers are Smith and Wesson M&P Shields in 9mm and .40 S&W calibers at $389.95," said Howell. "Midsize Glock Generation 4 Models 19 and 23, at $539.95, and SCCY CPX-2 9mm's, for $269.95, sell steadily. Customers want reliability and value, and these guns have good track records and price points."

Long gun sales are nowhere near as strong. Yet, Bullock's moves a respectable number of AR-15 rifles, notably the DPMS Oracle 5.56, and home defense shotguns like the Mossberg Persuader 12-gauge Pistol Grip Pumps at $349.95.

"We were in a shotgun/muzzleloader only zone for deer hunting, but we had a change to the hunting regulations last year, and now hunters can use straight-walled cartridge rifles above .35 caliber," Howell explains. "So, .357 and .44 Magnum rifles are doing well for us, and so are .450 Bushmaster Uppers."

A trend Howell has noticed among firearms accessories is customers coming to the store to replace items they already bought—bought online. "Consumers want value, but they also want products that work as advertised. They buy accessories online, then discover they are not what they thought or they do not meet their needs."

Vintage Ammunition and Their Boxes: It's All About The Markings

Jack Lewis—Cowan's Auctions, Cincinnati, Ohio, (CowanAuctions.com)

Jack Lewis, firearms specialist for Cowan's Auction, notes that prices being paid for 19th Century firearms have dropped noticeably the last couple years. And while prices are also down for vintage ammunition, older ammo and the boxes they originally came in are still in good demand.

"Once a collector gets a certain old gun, the next thing he wants is the period ammunition that goes with it," says Lewis. "Best prices are being paid for ammunition in the original, unopened boxes or packages."

At a recent Cowan Auction, a full pack of six "Combustible Skin Cartridges" in .36 caliber, made by the Hazard Powder Company, sold for $517. Packages themselves can be very valuable, too. A rare pack of paper cartridges for a Colt Revolving Rifle in excellent condition, with the words, "5 Combustible envelope cartridges made of Hazards powder Expressly for Col Colts Patent Revolving Rifle," printed on the box, sold for $862. No ammo—just the package!

But prices here are down, too. Several years ago, for example, an unopened 100-round box of .44-caliber rimfire ammunition for the Henry Rifle sold at auction for $22,000. The next time the same container came up for auction? $12,000.

A noticeable shift Lewis has seen is the growing interest in 20th Century firearms, especially American military arms. A big winner is the Colt 1911 semi-automatic pistol. "If you have a 1911 made between World Wars One and Two? It's going for the best prices I have ever seen."

Another 20th Century winner: the World War One Trench Gun. "Trench guns are going for anywhere between $650 all the way to $10,000," says Lewis. "We recently had a Stevens Trench Gun, with its bluing intact and in really fine condition, sell for $6,750. That's an amazing price, far, far above what we would've seen just a few years ago."

High Profile Arms and Huge, Huge Bids

Patrick Hogan—Rock Island Auction Company, Rock Island, Ill., (RockIslandAuction.com)

At the Rock Island Auction Company's 2015 September Premiere Firearms Auction, an impressive selection of approximately 2,800 collector firearms went up for sale. While "the usual suspects" did very well as always—the Colts and Winchester—several high profile firearms brought in amazing dollar amounts—helping total sales for this one auction to top $13.6 million.

The highest-achieved price of the auction was for a Krieghoff-manufactured German FG-42 paratrooper rifle. Last year, RIA auctioned off an FG-42 for $299,000, and that, it turned out, was no random spike, as this most recent FG-42 (fully automatic, by the way) brought in $322,000.

Furious bidding erupted over an exceptionally rare and historic Walther PP handgun that had been deeply factory engraved and gold washed to serve as a Heinrich Himmler presentation pistol. The gun had been captured in Germany by a U.S. serviceman, whose family had owned it ever since; this handgun had never been seen before by collectors, though a near identical, consecutively serial numbered version does reside in the West Point Academy Museum. The bidding quickly jumped up to $150,000. It escalated to $200,000; more bids were made, and eventually the Walther sold for $287,500.

Then, there was President John F. Kennedy's National Match M1 Garand which went for $149,500. This was a world record price for an M1 Garand. GDTM
